—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ASIA HAS worries unknown here, as yet. In Japan a "patriotic society" assassinates statesmen of whom it disapproves, and thinks it has done its duty.

In China, Communists, so-called, are energetic. Yesterday, in Canton, they blew up four ordnance buildings, terrific noise and fright, much property destruction.

HERE, SOME best minds "wonder what is the matter with us." They need not wonder. After the war we had gigantic prosperity, and started gambling on a scale that put prices even higher.

Government, with its sweetly intelligent income tax, said:

"If you sell and make a profit you must give me a large part of it."

So nobody sold. All buying, and no selling, led to the 1929 smash.

THE UNITED STATES government that used to live on $500,000,000 a year began spending 5,000 millions yearly.

It sent $10,000,000,000 and 3,000,000 men to Europe, insane stupidity.

And private finance sent tens of billions more, even going so far as to bribe the son of the president of a small republic to accept fifty or a hundred millions of our money.

THAT WOULD seem enough to cause some "slight disturbance." And all the time, this country was feeding BILLIONS A YEAR TO CRIME.

PROHIBITION brought bootlegging. Bootlegging financed crime to the tune of billions a year. Crime became a prosperous industry, while other industries lost their prosperity.

At the same time, enormous revenues that the government had derived from the sale of beer and other alcoholic drinks stopped, and to that loss was added perfectly futile expenditure of millions for what is humorously called "prohibition enforcement."

THIS COUNTRY will make the discovery that you can't gamble in hundreds of billions, ship your money abroad in tens of billions, finance bootlegging and crime to the tune of billions a year, deprive the country of revenue that used to come from breweries and distilleries, and continue prosperity.

It takes "no ghost to come from the grave" to tell us what is THE MATTER WITH US.

Now, discovery that receipts from income tax will fall off about $800,000,000 this year will emphasize the fact that somebody, somewhere in the United States, must DO SOMETHING.

THIS COUNTRY has everything that it needs, except common sense, efficient government, understanding of conditions and a few dozen other things that come under the general heading of "intelligence."

Billions for bootlegging, billions for other nations, billions to finance crime, billions deliberately cut from the government's income, billions milked from industry and efficiency, through reckless income taxation. A nation run by politics, office-seekers, hypocrisy and self-delusion, EVEN THE RICHEST COUNTRY IN THE WORLD CAN'T STAND THAT FOREVER.

THIS COUNTRY needs and lacks adequate, economical DISTRIBUTION. For that reason it is folly to tell four of the greatest industrial concerns in the United States, now engaged in distribution of the farmers' cattle, pigs and chickens, that they must not distribute other products of the farms.

To forbid full use of the packers' distributing agencies is like telling a milkman that he can sell only milk, another wagon must bring the cream, and a third the buttermilk.

The consuming public at one end, the farmer at the other, pay all the distribution costs.

Those that distribute meat should distribute all farm products, fruits, vegetables, raw and canned; everything, in short, that they CAN distribute, everything that the farm produces and the consumer wants. To limit or forbid the businessman the right to do what he chooses in his own way in legitimate business, is idiocy, harmful to 90 per cent of the people. It is a part of top-heavy extravagance that brings depression.

IT IS NOT conceivable that a high court will say to an American enterprise:

"You have facilities for distribution, but you shall not use them, because we wish somebody else to come between the farmer and the consumer."

THE CASE of the stolen Lindbergh baby yesterday presented a sensational incident, emphasizing the early opinion that the kidnaping was "an inside job."

It was stated, on the authority of one of Cyrus H. K. Curtis' reporters, that a small fox terrier that had always slept in the baby's room was taken from the room for the first time on the night of the kidnaping, and made to sleep in the kitchen. It was the only dog on the estate.

THE FEDERAL Council of Churches of Christ in America will recommend shorter sermons, an excellent idea in some cases.

A few words, stimulating much thought, are better than many words that burden thought.

Radio competes with the churches, but some preachers need fear no such radio competition.

Gov. Pinchot Breaks With Coyne

FOLLOWERS OF SENATOR FACE AX

Failure to Support Butler, Flinn Arouses Ire of Executive; Fight in City

By MARK SHIELDS

Gov. Pinchot has declared war to the hilt on Senator James J. Coyne, and, according to word from Harrisburg, will shortly begin putting the ax to Coyne followers who have obtained state jobs in the present Pinchot administration.

The split between the Governor and the Senator is brought about by Coyne's support in the primary of Senator James J. Davis and State Senator Frank J. Baldwin, the latter a candidate for Auditor General. Pinchot had been hopeful that Coyne would support the administration senatorial candidate, Gen. Smedley D. Butler, or at least Ralph Flinn, of Allegheny County, Pinchot candidate for Auditor General.

The rift between the Governor and Coyne destroys the last connection of Pinchot with organized politics in the state. Coyne first assisted Pinchot in the 1930 primary, being so influenced by former Senator Joseph R. Grundy. In the succeeding election, Coyne and Mayor Charles H. Kline loyally supported Pinchot when the Philadelphia Republican organization bolted to the Democratic candidate for Governor, John Hemphill.

FAVORED COYNE

Since Pinchot's inauguration Coyne has had free access to the Governor's office, much to the displeasure of some Independents. It was Coyne who obtained the appointment of former Judge Frank I. Gollmar as sheriff, a move which did not suit County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, recognized Pinchot leader here.

The loss to Coyne in patronage will not be great. The majority of the state appointments he has received have been through the Auditor General's department.

On the heels of the split, Independents are expected to campaign vigorously against Coyne in the Forty-third Senatorial District, where he is a candidate for re-election. The force of the Independents is split now between E. J. Wuerthle and John Benning, but efforts will be made to pull one out of the race. Each is reluctant to retire.

OPEN HEADQUARTERS

Both Independent and Regular headquarters were open today, the Independents functioning in the Magee Building, Fourth avenue, and the Regulars on the mezzanine floor of the William Penn Hotel. A typewritten notice on the Fourth avenue headquarters says activity is in the interest of Butler, Flinn and Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, candidate for the Superior Court.

No mention is made of Auditor General Charles A. Waters, organization candidate for State Treasurer, or Judge Robert Gawthrop and William M. Parker as candidates for the Superior Court. All three, it has been assumed, will be supported by the Pinchot faction.

OHIO BOY'S KIDNAPER GETS LIFE

Plea for Mercy Ignored as Judge Denounces Crime; Demarco Trial Monday

WARREN, O., March 16.—(AP.)—Declaring kidnaping is "one of the most cruel and heartless" crimes and is becoming "all too prevalent," Common Pleas Judge Lynn B. Griffith today sentenced Dowell Hargrave, 31, to life imprisonment for the abduction of 11-year-old James De Jute, Jr.

The judge, who heard the case without a jury at the request of the defense, found Hargraves guilty of kidnaping with intent to extort money.

MERCY PLEA IGNORED

Under Ohio law, conviction on such a charge in case the victim is under 12 years carries a maximum sentence of life. Defense pleas for a recommendation of mercy, which would have reduced the penalty to 10 to 30 years, were ignored. The judge, in his verdict, said:

"The crime of kidnaping is one of the most cruel and heartless in the calendar. It strikes a blow at the tenderest and most sacred affections of human blood, and is usually resorted to for revenge or extortion."

"By the Jewish and civil law, kidnaping was punishable with death, and by common law, with fine, imprisonment and pillory.

CRIME TOO PREVALENT

"Kidnaping is an offense that is becoming all too prevalent in its appearances throughout our land in the recent months.

"Where the crime is proved in all its elements, punishment should be meted out by the courts of justice and the punishment should be exemplary."

The court then found Hargraves guilty and added:

"There being no extenuating or mitigating circumstances to warrant the court in making the recommendation of mercy, the same is withheld."

Before delivering his opinion, Judge Griffith asked Hargraves if he wished to reveal the name of a third man believed to have been connected with the kidnaping. Hargraves said he had "nothing to say."

NEXT TRIAL MONDAY

Hargraves' failure to take the stand in his own defense also was pointed out by the judge.

S. P. Mango, defense attorney, said he was undecided whether to appeal.

Hargraves was the first of two men to be tried for the kidnaping. The trial ended yesterday with Mungo arguing that the state had failed to prove intent to extort.

John DeMarco, captured and indicted with Hargraves, will go on trial Monday.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN—ONE OF FIVE BOROUGHS' COMPANIES—FIGHTING GARAGE FIRE ON THE DARLINGTON ESTATE

SIX DARLINGTON AUTOS BURN

Six automobiles were destroyed today as fire swept the garage on the Harry Darlington, Jr. estate in Sewickley Heights.

Five fire companies—from Sewickley, Sewickley Heights, Edgeworth, Ambridge and Emsworth—fought in vain to save the 30-year-old building which formerly was the Darlington stables, and to which an addition was but recently added.

One Edgeworth fireman, Orrin Alexander, was injured by falling glass.

Mrs. Darlington, a widow, is in Paris, where her two children are attending school.

Two of the destroyed cars were owned by servants, four by the Darlingtons.

The fire was discovered by Frank Noughlik, a houseman.

Robert Clark, caretaker of the estate, estimated the loss at $25,000.

Four Injured In Trolley Crash

Four passengers were injured when a Homestead-McKeesport street car crashed into the rear of a Bloomfield car, at Forbes street and Bigelow boulevard, this afternoon. John Williams, 3322 Juliet street, cut on the face, was taken to Mercy Hospital and Mary Browdy, 3030 Allendale street, to Magee Hospital suffering from shock. Mrs. R. Ritter, 5842 Hobart street, suffering from shock and Alvin Durham, 1726 Tustin street, cut on the mouth and chin, were sent home.

The Bloomfield car, outbound, had stopped for a traffic light, it was said by railway officials, when the car following skidded into it.

Hoover Tells Dry To 'Keep Up Fight'

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP.)—Seeking a "cheery message" from President Hoover behind which to rally Republican women in Pennsylvania, Mrs. Joseph H. Gazzam, ardent Philadelphia prohibitionist, today quoted the Chief Executive as saying:

"Keep in the fight."

All Lindy 'Clues' Fail, Police Hint in Review Of Search for Child

Probes of Prisoners' Plot, Taxi Man's Story Futile

By QUENTIN REYNOLDS
International News Service.

TRENTON, N. J., March 16.—Official activity in the last 24 hours in the search for the kidnaped Lindbergh baby has been productive of no results of a promising nature, it was indicated by the "news bulletin" issued here today by Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey state police.

Schwarzkopf's statement, some 500 words in length, was devoted to an explanation of the work done on the latest "clues" and the sum total apparently was that these clues, so-called, either were of no moment or were showing no promise of aiding in the solution of the mystery.

PRISONERS GRILLED

The statement began:

"We have not received any official report as to the action Newark and Jersey City police have taken as a result of the questioning of Gleason and Fitzgerald."

William Gleason, of Cliffside, N. J., was taken into custody and his landlady was subjected to prolonged questioning. Charles Oliver, an inmate of the penitentiary at Welfare Island, was taken to a police station in Jersey City. There he was confronted by Gleason, with whom Fitzgerald had struck up a friendship in the Hudson County Penitentiary when both men were confined there late in 1930—Fitzgerald on a pistol charge and Gleason for alleged wife desertion.

Fitzgerald had been quoted by detectives as saying he had once discussed plans for the kidnaping with Gleason. Fitzgerald was

Mother, Girl Strangled, Both Dead

YONKERS, N. Y., March 16.—(INS.)—A mother and her daughter were found strangled to death in their apartment here today. The victims were Mrs. Margaret Nunes, 48, and Miss Marie Nunes, 14.

Half an hour after the bodies were found, Alexander Nunes, 44, husband of Mrs. Nunes, was arrested on a side street as he sat in an automobile, his belongings packed beside him.

Mrs. Nunes and her daughter had been strangled by hand, presumably as they slept.

Pullman Firm Loses Extra Charge Plea

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP.)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today ruled that the Pullman Company cannot make an extra charge when two persons occupy the same berth.

The Pullman Company last October proposed to add 20 per cent to the charge if a second passenger, 12 years old or over, occupied a berth.

4 Get Life Term 30 Hours After Holdup

CLINTON, Ia., March 16.—(INS.)—Less than 30 hours after they robbed the City Bank here of $106,000, binding 38 employes and customers, four young men were sentenced to life imprisonment today.

They were captured a short time after the holdup, abandoning the money in their flight.

Hitler Train 'Bullet' Stone Hurled by Boy

BERLIN, March 16.—(AP.)—The moderate excitement aroused yesterday by reports that some one had fired upon a train in which Adolf Hitler was returning from Weimar subsided today when it was determined the "bullet" which broke a window in the train was a stone thrown by boys playing along the track.

ROOSEVELT'S LEAD GROWS

FARGO, N. D., March 16.—(AP.)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, led Gov. William (Alfalfa Bill) Murray on the basis of incomplete early returns today by an almost 2-to-1 vote in their contest for the Democratic presidential preference vote in Tuesday's primary. Returns from 178 of 2,235 precincts in the state gave Roosevelt 5,283 and Murray 2,752.

J. I. France, former senator from Maryland, was running well ahead of Gen. Jacob S. Coxey, mayor of Massilon, O., in the Republican presidential preference race. France had 3,005 to Coxey's 1,718 votes on the basis of 144 precincts reporting. President Hoover, while not a candidate in the primary, had received 18 votes.

Most of the early returns were from the urban centers of population and Murray supporters expected the Oklahoma Governor to draw his greatest support from the rural districts. Returns came in slowly, many county auditors deferring continuing the vote count until later today.

Though meager, the returns indicated a record Democratic presidential vote for North Dakota. Election judges said the demand for Democratic ballots indicated thousands of Republicans had switched to the Democratic party, at least for the primary.

Experts to Study Record Blast Today

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP.)—Earthquake experts all over the United States were to stand by late this afternoon to learn how much of the country is shaken by the explosion of 215 tons of dynamite at Manistique, Mich.

The explosion will be the greatest controlled blast ever set off in peace time, said Dr. F. W. Lee, of the United States Bureau of Mines. It will blast out a year's supply of iron ore for the Inland Steel Company.

FUMES SEEP INTO HOMES AS MAINS BREAK

Six Killed in N. Y. Village, Four in Michigan; Many Overcome in Naticoke, Pa.

Ten persons are dead and scores were overcome today in three widely separated communities as a result of mysterious gas fumes seeping into homes.

Six in one family were killed in their sleep at New Windsor, a New York village. Four children were dead in Kalamazoo, Mich. Others narrowly escaped death in both places.

More than a score were felled this afternoon in Nanticoke, Pa.

Authorities blamed leaks in mains, and New Windsor officials appealed for aid from the Bureau of Mines in Pittsburgh in locating the source.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., March 16.—(AP.)—Six members of the family of John Lucas were killed by gas as they slept in their home at New Windsor, N. Y., near here, early today.

In another house across the street Charles Weygant and his three sons were overcome by the fumes.

The source of the escaping gas was not immediately determined. All mains in New Windsor were shut off when the tragedy became known. New mains were laid in the village last fall.

PITTSBURGHER CALLED

County authorities asked that George Jones, explosive chemist of the Bureau of Mines at Pittsburgh, be sent to locate the break they believed had occurred in the main.

Authorities pointed out that gas from a broken main would not penetrate frozen earth at the surface, but would travel under it, and might have entered the homes by following the usual service pipes.

An investigation showed that all gas fixtures in the two houses were properly closed.

The four Weygant victims might also have died had not Mrs. Charles Weygant returned home early today after an all-night vigil with her sick mother to find her home filled with gas and her husband and sons unconscious. She immediately threw open all windows in the house. The victims were revived by firemen.

FIND FAMILY DEAD

Noticing that gas fumes lingered about the neighborhood, Mrs. Weygant wondered if gas could be in other homes nearby, and noticed windows in the Lucas house were closed.

Leaving her own home she ran across the street, succeeded in en-

Jungle Rescue Awaiting Proof Explorer Lives

LONDON, March 16.—(INS.)—The Royal Georgraphical Society will delay action on organization of a possible searching expedition to the Brazil jungles to locate Col. P. H. Fawcett until definite word has been received that the British explorer still is alive, International News Service was informed by the secretary of the society today.

The society has not been directly informed of the report Col. Fawcett, after having been missing for seven years, was seen in the interior of Brazil. It will leave all inquiries to be made by the Foreign Office until there exists no question as to the explorer's being alive.

The Foreign Office was in touch with the British consul at Sao Paulo, Brazil, who relayed the report as given him by a native trapper.

The explorer's wife, interviewed via telephone at her villa at Bougy Sur Clarens, near Montreux, on Lake Geneva, Switzerland, said she was certain Col. Fawcett was alive.

Aimee Undergoes Blood Transfusion

Roosevelt, Smith, Garner Under W. C. T. U. Ban

By H. LARL WILSON
International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., March 16.—The National W. C. T. U.'s tentative list of approved presidential prospects came out today, accompanied by an unblushing admission that drys seeking that high office seem mighty scarce this year.

In instructing Ohio members how to campaign, Mrs. Ella Boole, of Brooklyn, the national president, disclosed that "everything possible" is being done by the drys to persuade Former Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo to try for the Democratic nomination, but "he apparently is determined not to be a candidate."

Thus far the approved list contains only two names—"all the drys there are," Mrs. Boole lamented. Besides McAdoo, the anti-liquor organization, of course, has approved the candidacy of President Hoover.

A much larger list, and wholly Democratic, is that of candidates whom the W. C. T. U. cannot "conscientiously support," and "must therefore oppose." The objectionables are:

Former Gov. Al Smith, of New York.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York.

Former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, of Ohio.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland.

HOUSE SETS TOMORROW AS LIMIT FOR DEBATE ON TAX BILL

AMENDMENTS SLATED FOR DISCUSSION

Forces Fighting Sales Levy Fail to Find Substitute Plan; Arrange Meeting

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Bringing the fight over the new $1,096,000,000 tax increase bill to a climax, the House today voted to end general debate on the measure tomorrow night and begin consideration of amendments.

Consent of the House was obtained by Representative Crisp (Dem.) of Georgia, acting chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, after the committee decided to force the issue by a vote if necessary.

Confidence that opposition to the measure is dissipating, its supporters prepared to push it rapidly through the amendment stage.

Universal Service.

RALLY PLANNED

Anti-sales tax Democrats in the House have been asked by their leaders to attend a rally tonight with the hope of offering a substitute plan for the $600,000,000 manufacturers' sales tax contained in the tax bill.

Steps also were under way among Republican foes of the proposed sales tax to have a rally. Representative F. H. LaGuardia (Rep.) of New York was pressing for such a conference.

Leaders of the forces in both parties, who are backing the manufacturers' sales tax, characterized the move of "antis" as a sign of weakening.

SEEK SUBSTITUTE

Committed to the principle that the federal budget must be balanced, forces fighting a general manufacturers' sales tax were in a quandry over what to offer as a substitute. So far their only proposal is to single out a few industries to be the "victims" for budget-balancing.

After conferring with President Hoover, Representative Bertrand H. Snell, of New York, Republican House leader, forecast the $1,096,000,000 tax bill would be passed substantially as reported by the Ways and Means Committee. This prediction included adoption of the sales tax.

Over a nationwide hook-up of the National Broadcasting System last night, Snell appealed for a tax bill that will balance the federal budget. He said a balanced budget was necessary to preserve the credit of the government unimpaired and as a keystone for a return of better times.

MAY FORCE WAGE CUT

Declaring Congress will be kept in session all summer if necessary to pass a tax bill to balance the budget, Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, Democratic leader of the House, warned the American Federation of Labor today that its stand may force reduction of salaries of all government employes.

His statement was made in answering the federation's president, William Green, who reiterated his opposition to the manufacturers' tax. Rainey said:

"When the nation's bonds are selling below par and we cannot borrow money on long term issues and are running behind $4,000,000 a day, it seems to me we must restore the government's solvency or suffer terrific consequences."

PINCHOT'S WIRE READ TO SENATE

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP.)—Senator Bingham (Rep.), of Connecticut, brought a bundle of telegrams from Governors of most of the states into the Senate today to bolster an attack upon the $132,500,000 Democratic highway construction bill.

One of the telegrams—that of Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania—said starvation was widespread in his state. The others reported conditions of varying seriousness, but that local and state agencies had thus far been able to cope with the situation.

Bingham said the reports received in response to telegrams he had sent out indicated that 6,000,000 was a fair estimate of the number of jobless instead of the 10,000,000 figure that has been mentioned in the Senate by some of his colleagues.

GAS KILLS TEN, SCORES ILL

tering the Lucas house and found all members of the family in bed. Her efforts to rouse them failed, and physicians who arrived later found them dead.

Mr. Jones, who carried on an investigation in the vicinity of Newburgh two years ago, said today he had not yet received any word from the authorities there to investigate the gas deaths and would have to be instructed from Washington.

Questioned as to the possibility of gas escaping from a broken main into the houses, he answered:

"With our new solid paving, where else can gas escape, if not in sewers, open manholes or basements of homes?"

SCORES MADE ILL

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., March 16.—(AP.)—More than a score of persons were overcome by escaping illuminating gas at Nanticoke today, and at least 50 others were made ill by fumes from a broken main that allowed gas to enter two dozen dwellings.

Panic prevailed for more than an hour in the thickly populated section of West Ridge street, between Hanover and Fairchild streets, when presence of the gas was discovered by early risers who sent hurry calls for medical aid and then rushed from house to house, arousing sleeping occupants and warning others who had not yet traced the powerful odor.

Drs. H. L. Shemanski and R. D. Martin with a pulmotor hurried from one home to the next reviving those who were fully overcome and others who collapsed when they rushed from gas-filled homes into fresh air outside.

At noon it was reported that the gas escaped from a broken main of the Luzerne County Gas and Electric Company midway between Hanover and Fairchild streets on West Ridge. Employes of the utility company were sent to repair the leak and test the main for further weak spots. A slight surface subsidence due to frost that broke the gas main was said to have been the cause of what might have developed into a tragedy.

FOUR DIE IN MICHIGAN

KALAMAZOO, Mich., March 16.—(AP.)—With four children dead and four other persons still in serious condition, investigators continued today their efforts to identify the gas which overcame nine members of the Claus K. Lanine family in their home yesterday.

Belief was expressed that marsh gas may have seeped into the house through the basement.

HOAN LEADING IN MILWAUKEE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 16.—(AP.)—After having Daniel W. Hoan, Socialist, in the Mayor's chair for 16 years, Milwaukee has decided to give him another opportunity at re-election.

The Mayor polled a plurality of more than 10,000 votes over four competitors in yesterday's mayoralty primary, receiving more than twice as many votes as his nearest rival, Alderman Joseph P. Carney, nonpartisan. Mayor Hoan and Carney will contest for the mayorship in the election April 5.

The favorable condition of the City Treasurer, showing a balance of available cash at a time when other cities were threatened with bankruptcy, recently attracted nation-wide attention and Mayor Hoan, in his whimsical campaign talks, made the most of it. He urged the voters to retain the men who have kept Milwaukee out of debt.

JAPS, CHINESE YIELD TO AID PEACE PACT

Invaders Will Withdraw More Troops, Foes Keep Lines Outside Shanghai

By DIXON HOSTE
International News Service.

SHANGHAI, March 16.—The way was further cleared for a final settlement of the Sino-Japanese conflict today with the announcement that China and Japan, each conceding important points, had agreed upon a cessation of hostilities.

The Japanese agreed to withdraw the 11th Division and the 24th Mixed Brigade of her Shanghai army on Friday, while China agreed to make no attempt to advance her lines beyond their present positions west of Shanghai.

The terms were arranged at private conferences at the British Consulate at which Sir Miles Lampson, British Minister to China, presided, and which were attended by Nelson T. Johnson, American Minister to China; Henri Wilden, French Minister, and Count Galeazoo Ciano di Cortellaza, Italian charge d'affairs.

Quo Tai-Chi, Chinese vice foreign minister, and Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese Minister to China, represented the disputing parties.

Two of the most important concessions were made upon points which heretofore have proved insurmountable stumbling blocks. Japan for the first time agreed to withdraw her troops without demanding first that her status in Shanghai be settled, while China also for the first time agreed to consider the Shanghai controversy separately from the Manchurian question.

GENEVA, March 16.—(INS.)—Provisional agreement by Japan and China to an armistice in Shanghai was announced to the permanent committee of the League of Nations assembly today by Paul Hymans, president.

16 Nations Ignore Manchurian State

By EDWARD S. HUNTER
Universal Service Special Cable

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, March 16.—The diplomatic doors of 16 nations had today been slammed shut in the face of the new Japanese-fostered Manchurian state seeking recognition as a nation independent of China.

Russian consular officials branded as false reports from Tokio that Moscow would shortly give the dictatorship of Henry Pu-Yi, former boy emperor of China, diplomatic recognition.

The consular agents of 15 other nations declared their home governments had received cabled invitations to exchange diplomats with the new state. In each case they said they had received instructions to deal only informally with the local authorities in each district and to ignore the central regime at Changchun.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 16.—(AP.)—The United States Coast Guard reported today that 13 fishermen were marooned on a huge ice floe drifting in Lake Erie, off Pinehurst, about 14 miles from Buffalo. Coast guard crews were being rushed to the scene while two airplanes took off from the municipal airport to aid in locating the floe.

The floe was reported drifting across the lake toward the Canadian shore. The coast guard said the men had been fishing through the ice off Pine Beach when a section had broken off.

Three other fishermen on the edge of the floe nearest the shore were rescued by volunteer firemen off Lake View. The stranded men were located on the further edge of the floe which was reported to be more than two miles wide.

PRIZE OF CHILD BUYS BABY BOND

The sale of United States Treasury Baby Bonds, begun yesterday to put idle money in circulation, brought a young customer to the Diamond Bank. The penny bank of Theresa May Quaid, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Quaid, of 209 Castle Shannon road, was opened and emptied of its contents to buy a $50 Baby Bond. Theresa earned most of the money by good behavior.

The Baby Bonds, in denominations of $50, $100 and $500, were being sold in many banks yesterday to release idle money, stimulate business and reduce unemployment. They bear 2 per cent interest, mature in one year and may be redeemed at 60 days' notice to the United States government.

Many merchants, department stores and automobile companies have announced they will accept the bonds as currency. Many banks in the Pittsburgh district have announced they will accept the Treasury certificates for safe keeping until maturity without charge.

Be Yourself, Even If 'Goofy,' Advises Edna Ferber

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—Persons who would achieve success must "be themselves," even at the risk of being thought "goofy," Edna Ferber, the novelist, told the graduating class of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. She declared:

"Americans are a little inclined to be rubber stamps, perhaps because we are not quite sure of ourselves. And so, to avoid being laughed at or talked about or pointed out, we try to conform a little too much. We try to be like somebody else, because we are afraid of being called 'goofy.' Well, I think being 'goofy' is very important."

RECALL OF DRY FOE BALKED

ATLANTA, Ga., March 16.—(INS.)—Mayor James L. Key, whose attack on prohibition attracted international attention, will continue at the head of Atlanta's city government.

The fiery Mayor emerged victorious today in returns from yesterday's special municipal election on a petition to recall him from office. The recall petition was rejected by a vote of 17,178 to 11,743. So spirited was the battle over the proposed recall that it drew more votes than any previous municipal election in Atlanta's history.

Chief criticism of the Mayor by those who sought his dismissal centered about a speech he delivered in France while a member of the party of American mayors on tour. Key asserted the prohibition laws are unenforceable.

He also created opposition by permitting motion pictures on Sunday for charity purposes. Recently Mayor Key was forced out of his position as a teacher in a Sunday school.

WIFE OF SLEUTH TO SURRENDER IN JURY 'FIX'

All But One of 8 Under Indictment in Kline Probe At Butler Now Located

The surrender of Mrs. May Daugherty Scott, wife of a city detective, indicted in connection with the alleged attempt to tamper with the Mayor Charles H. Kline jury panel, is expected today.

Word that the woman was ready to end the two-week search of detectives for her came last night to District Attorney Edgar H. Negley, of Butler County, in a telephone message from Attorney J. F. Callahan.

It was also indicated in the message that her brother, Bert Daugherty, of Hillard, indicted by the Butler County grand jury on an embracery charge, also would surrender.

District Attorney Negley set Mrs. Scott's bond at $4,000. She was indicted on embracery and conspiracy charges.

Mrs. Scott, her brother and eight other defendants were scheduled to go on trial Monday, unless a continuance now under motion, is granted.

The surrender of Mrs. Scott and Daugherty will narrow the search for the defendants to one man, Lee Norris, of Pittsburgh. He is the eighth defendant and has not been located.

DETROIT LIGHT FIGHT RENEWED

DETROIT, March 16.—(INS.)—The next move of Detroit officials to gain an electric rate reduction following Detroit Edison Company's refusal to discuss any reduction will be a petition to the Michigan Public Utilities Commission, Clarence E. Wilcox, corporation counsel, announced today.

Meanwhile, no action was taken by Council on the Detroit City Gas Company's offer of a two-cent per 1,000 cubic feet reduction in consumers price of gas. A conference between Mayor Frank Murphy and gas company officials will be held tomorrow.

Mayor Murphy early this week refused the two-cent reduction and held out for five cents which gas company officials say is impossible. An annual savings of $1,500,000 would be effected by the larger reduction.

Bank Reopening Plans Speeded in Homewood

Plans for reopening the Homewood Peoples Bank, which closed in October, were further formulated at a meeting held in Taylor Hall, Kelly street, last night.

About 250 Homewood business and professional men attended.

George R. Dorman presided and announced that 2,000 shares of stock will be sold to obtain a new $150,000 capitalization.

The bank, with $3,000,000 in deposits, can ask the state banking commissioner to turn over a certain portion of the deposits to organization if his approval is given to the organization plan and the new directors and officers after the stock has been subscribed.

A large amount of the stock already has been sold. Dorman said. Three teams, headed by Herbert Sander, Dick Briney and Frank E. Shaughnessy, were named to dispose of the balance.

Man Pursued by Bullets Only Running for Car

Sam Leoney, 35, of East street, was only waiting for a street car.

But when he started to run for it early today at Penn and Fifth avenues, City Detective Charles Weizenhoffer took after him.

Leoney cut through an alley toward Duquesne way. Weizenhoffer yelled for him to stop, but he only ran faster. So the detective fired five shots in the air. That was when Leoney found he hadn't really been running at all before.

His sprint carried him right into the Pittsburgh Natatorium, from where a police radio car squad, called by Weizenhoffer, dragged him to Central Police Station.

This morning Leoney told Magistrate Leo Rothenberg his story. Weizenhoffer said that Leoney, running, resembled a man detectives had been asked to "pick up." He wasn't the man and was discharged.

POWERS' LAST PLEA WILL DENOUNCE CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

ADVANCES NEW THEORY AS TO KILLINGS

'Bluebeard' Insists Secret Evidence Will Swing Blame For Crime on Mystery Pair

BULLETIN.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., March 16.—(AP.)—Judge William E. Baker, in Federal District Court here this afternoon, denied application for counsel for Harry F. Powers for a writ of habeas corpus.

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 16.—(AP.)—If the Federal Court refuses to stay his sentence—death on the gallows for murder—Harry F. Powers' last message to the world he startled by his crimes will be an "appeal to humanity at large" to abolish capital punishment, "especially upon merely circumstantial evidence."

The "Bluebeard of Quiet Dell," who will be hanged Friday night unless Judge William E. Baker at Clarksburg grants him a stay, met newspapermen today and told them of his contemplated message.

Powers reiterated his denial that he killed Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, Northboro (Mass.) divorcee, and Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher and her three children, of Park Ridge, Ill., and buried their bodies in a shallow ditch near his "garage of horrors" at Quiet Dell, near Clarksburg.

HINTS AT SLAYER

Asked if he knows who did kill Mrs. Lemke, for whose murder he is to be hanged, he said:

"I only have an opinion as to that."

The doomed man said he last saw Mrs. Lemke in the company of "Cecil Johnson" at Uniontown, Pa., the night of July 30, 1931.

"Cecil Johnson" and "Charles Rogers," whom Powers has blamed before for the crimes, are described by police as "phantoms" injected into the case by Powers in an effort to provide a defense. Powers said:

"I am of the opinion that Mrs. Lemke and Mrs. Eicher were killed at Fairmont and the children were slain at Quiet Dell.

"I think Cecil Johnson and Charles Rogers buried their bodies at Quiet Dell so as to throw the blame on me."

The pudgy Lothario said he believes Mrs. Eicher was killed between July 7 and 16, 1931, and the children about the same time. He said he is convinced Mrs. Lemke was murdered after August 3, because he received a letter from her bearing that date.

MOTIVE MYSTERY

He said he knows of no reason why anyone should have killed the two women and three children.

Yesterday Powers referred to "new evidence" which his attorney, J. Ed. Law, has uncovered. Today he said that cars identified as not belonging to him had been seen around the garage at Quiet Dell about the times the crimes were committed. He said there also is other evidence, but did not disclose its nature.

Powers received a letter today from his wife, Mrs. Lucila Strother Powers, of Clarksburg, but refused to disclose its contents. He met her through a matrimonial agency, as he did Mrs. Lemke and Mrs. Eicher.

Powers seemed to be in good spirits today. He said he slept soundly last night. His appetite continues good.

Kleig Lights Call Skinner's Daughter

CORNELIA OTIS SKINNER . . . ALL THE WIVES OF HENRY VIII

Actress Playing Here Awaits Results Of Screen Test

Kleig lights and the studio stages are beckoning to another luminary of the dramatic stage. Cornelia Otis Skinner, who is approaching the histrionic heights of her father, Otis Skinner, is the latest actress being lured by a Hollywood contract, but she has a decided viewpoint on the screen's limitations.

Miss Skinner revealed here yesterday that she had been induced to take a screen test. Whether the outcome will be satisfactory to her will not be known until next week, when the test film will be seen in New York. Miss Skinner appeared last night at the Alvin Theater in her own creation, "Wives of Henry VIII," under auspices of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters.

Miss Skinner, who fills the unique role of a "solo" actress and admits she misses the companionship of fellow players that a regular production could give her, explained:

"A dramatic actress of the stage cannot reveal her true ability on the screen in my opinion. She is tailored by the director to fit his ideas rather than her own art. Motion pictures are really not the art of acting. It is the art of photography. My debut would depend upon the right vehicle, too. Yes, I have always written my own presentations and maybe if I were to write my own film story it would be fun. But film work, not in my maddest moment would I take it up for a lifework."

Then with a smile she added:

"But listen to me talk. Maybe I will do one film before I'm through."

STOLEN RADIUM PERILS BRAIN OF THIEF

Three Milligrains Missing After Lecture Experiment; Warning Given by Owner

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 16.—(AP.)—Three milligrams of radium were stolen at a scientific lecture here last night. The owner, Dr. Luther S. H. Gable, has issued a warning to the thief to be careful or it will cause his brain to decay.

Dr. Gable, former head of the department of radium and heliology at the Detroit Institute of Technology, distributed a part of his $15,000 radium collection in the audience and dimmed the lights to demonstrate its action in darkness.

When the lights were turned on again and the radium collected, it was found that three milligrams in a lead-lined cylinder were missing.

TACOMA, Wash., March 16.—(Universal.)—Plumbers were engaged today to search for three radium needles, valued at $2,100, which a patient at the county hospital was believed to have tossed into a drain because they irritated him while being used to treat a cancer infection. Hospital officials said they had little hope of recovering the radium.

JUDGE ORDERS BREW FOR TEST

LANCASTER, Pa., March 16.—(INS.)—Norman Carpenter today was engaged in making a batch of home brew under court order.

Judge John M. Groff decided to make an investigation of malt products when Carpenter pleaded guilty to manufacture of home brew beer with ingredients he said were bought at a grocery store.

Carpenter's case was continued until Saturday, when sentence will be passed and his concoction is scheduled to be tested by court order.

Paul A. Mueller, the District Attorney, said he thought the issue would not affect the rights of stores to sell malt and other ingredients used in the manufacture, stating his belief that Carpenter merely put legal purchases to illegal sale.

PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—(INS.)—The court of Lancaster County has the right to issue any order it may see fit, "and we will abide by it," Commander John D. Pennington, prohibition administrator for Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey, declared today when informed of Judge John M. Groff's order to a defendant to prepare a batch of home brew for a court test.

TRIBUTE PAID TO EASTMAN

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 16.—(AP.)—This up-state New York city accorded homage today to its most renowned son and greatest benefactor—George Eastman.

Hundreds of sorrowing friends and employes of the Eastman Kodak Company filed past the bier of the man who gave Rochester its greatest industry, donated millions outright to those working for him and dispensed other millions for schools, colleges and dental clinics for their children.

The body lay in state today at his East avenue mansion here. It will remain there until 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon when it will be taken to St. Paul's Episcopal Church for a public funeral service.

SUSPECT ARSON IN HILL FIRE

Detectives of the bomb and arson squad today were to question S. Block, a haberdasher, of 1804 Center avenue, in connection with an alleged arson plot which was frustrated by members of two families living over the store, last night.

Detecting the odor of gasoline coming from the store, Mrs. Frances Fromme, who lives on the third floor, told her husband, Morris Fromme, to investigate. He, with Louis Sherman, who occupies an apartment on the second floor, peered through the door of the store and discovered that merchandise had been strewn about the floor, according to police.

Fearing an explosion, the men ran to their apartments and ordered members of the household into the street. Mrs. Fromme carried her toy bull, "Mitzie" and her parrot, "Loretta." Sherman assisted Mrs. Yetta Rosenfeld, his mother-in-law, and her son, Eugene, 11, to the street. Sherman's wife and Mrs. Rosenfeld's three other children were out at the time.

Shortly after the occupants had made their way out of the building, a blaze broke out in the store, police said.

The Pittsburgh woman divorced him in January not knowing that he even then had two other wives. Today she said:

N. Y. OFFICIAL DRAMATICALLY ACCUSED

'That Yellow Dog Ruined My Life,' Witness Declares In City Investigation

International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Where angry voices have been raised before, tears flowed today as a bent, gray-haired man told the Hofstadter legislative committee that his wife had been driven to suicide, that he had tried to take his own life, that his business had been ruined and his home foreclosed—"because of that dirty yellow dog sitting there."

He pointed to William J. Flinn, commissioner of public Works of the Bronx.

PITIFUL STORY

When Louis H. Willard, the witness, had finished, Flynn himself was called to the stand to be questioned on the most dramatic and pitiful story that has yet been poured into the ears of legislators, who for more than a year have listened to charges of theft, graft and double-dealing, in the city government.

Flynn signed a waiver of immunity and appeared far more composed than those in the crowded hearing room in which several women audibly sobbing as Willard broke down and had to be assisted from the stand while sobbing:

"My wife, my wife—She killed herself because of that dirty yellow dog."

BUSINESS RUINED

When Willard began his testimony there was no hint of what was to come—of the dates and the names and the places he was to give in charging that Flynn, using his powerful office, had elbowed him out of the garage business, had prevailed upon the Board of Standards and Appeals not to give him a permit, had threatened him with arrest if he used his land for parking cars, had refused him permission to cut a curbing and had finally ruined him.

And all the while, said Willard, Flynn himself was operating garages directly across the street from Willard's property where, as he quoted Flynn:

"The first man who gets in an dexcludes his neighbors will make a fortune."

MINE DEPUTIES GO ON TRIAL

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 16.—A first degree murder verdict will be sought in the case of a Pittsburgh Coal Company superintendent, two coal and iron policemen and six Fayette County deputy sheriffs, who went on trial here today for the murder of Mike Philipovich, Arnold City storekeeper, during a mine strike riot last June.

Ernest Barnes, superintendent; James Buttermore and John Yoder, coal and iron policemen, and O. P. Claybaugh; Roy Ingram, J. W. Fisher, Edwin L. Hunt, Donald Royston and Jesse B. Sisley, deputies, elected to stand trial jointly and pleaded not guilty.

Examination of veniremen by District Attorney W. K. Newell, indicated the state would ask for a first degree verdict. Each juror was asked if he had scruples against capital punishment. Attorney H. S. Dumbauld represented Philipovich's widow and E. C. Hisbee the defendants.

After a coroner's jury had exonerated the men, Mrs. Philipovich filed an information, on which the men were held for trial and committed to jail without bail last January.

"We have no knowledge of Abraham Levenson visiting the Lindbergh estate. He has not been in touch with the authorities and is not known at these headquarters.

Levenson ... delphia ... a friend ... puted ... ported ... Lindbergh.

Schwarzkopf ... look ... Kennedy ... whose ... caused ... Regarding ... kopf's ... said:

"The following is a statement by Kennedy Schaefer:

"'At 7 p. m. on March 8 I picked up three fares in Easton, Pa., who told me to drive to Flemington, N. J. When I reached Flemington they told me to stop and the two men on the rear seat got out and walked back to a car parked 100 feet back of us.

GIVEN MESSAGE

"'They got in this car and then the man in the front seat told me to drive ahead and the others followed. The man in my cab told me to drive to Hopewell and when we arrived he told me to stop. The other car pulled up and my fare got out, as did the two men in the other car.

"'The man who had ridden in the cab then told me to deliver a message to Col. Lindbergh or Mr. Breckinridge, Lindbergh's attorney, and not to fail unless I wanted to suffer the same thing that happened to Lindbergh. He then handed me a message and also gave me a verbal message only, namely:

"'Baby safe; withdraw police. March 9 and 10. Direct communication Lindbergh phone, call Spitale from Longacre.' Important.

"'Then one of the men took out a gun and told me to drive to the Hopewell station and look for the reporters and tell them Tony Russo sent me. They said not to follow them.

BALKED AT HOME

"'I went to the station and asked for the reporters and was told they were in Frbhardt's. I went there and met Stewart Rogers (a reporter) and when I told him Tony Russo sent me he said the word was a key word.

"'Rogers and two other men took me to the Woodrow Wilson Hotel in New Brunswick and kept me there. A man named Val O'Farrel (a private detective) came and asked me what was in the message. When I refused he told me that he would be able to get into Col. Lindbergh's home with the message.

"'We then went back to Hopewell. A man named Conroy said it would be impossible to get to the Lindbergh home as Mr. Breckinridge said that I was there on the sixth, which I denied. Val O'Farrell took me to New York and tried to get in touch with Lindbergh but could not. I stayed all night in New York and came back the next morning to Hopewell. While in Hopewell a man named Badge came to me and said he would take me to the Lindbergh home, which he did.

VERIFICATION FAILS

"'I presented the note to Mr. ... Flannery of the Jersey police.'"

Commencing on Schaefer's story, Col. Schwarzkopf's official bulletins merely stated:

"Investigation has not proved any fact of his story."

And then Schwarzkopf's bulletins briefly upon Ollie Wheatley, the Lindbergh butler, said:

Ollie Wheatley is free to come and go at will and did not leave the estate last night. He also states he was never in Springfield, Mass."

Reports that Mrs. Lindbergh has been ... were treated in the statement in a single sentence:

We do not know that Dr. Vanneman, of Princeton, has treated Mrs. Lindbergh at any time."

PROBE INCOMPLETE

The Schwarzkopf statement concluded with this assertion:

"Investigators were sent to the home of Leandro Lightfoot in Highland last evening but have not returned."

Lightfoot is New York sales manager for a glass concern. His wife had reported that her butler and maid had disappeared suddenly shortly after she found the Lightfoot car covered with mud and the speedometer showing it had been upwards of 60 miles on one trip. After the departure of the maid, Lightfoot, tinkering in the cellar, found that a chisel was missing.

NEW THEORY EVOLVED

Police today entertained a new theory of the kidnaping.

They believed three men, but no woman, took part in it.

According to this reconstruction of the crime, the abductors parked their automobile along Featherbed lane, then walked to the house, carrying the ladder in three sections.

Later, one man climbed the ladder to the second-story nursery. Finding the window unbarred, he dropped a chisel he carried, slid on his back into the room over a suit case which stood on a chest near the window, and snatched up the baby.

He handed the child to another man who climbed up the ladder and carried down the baby. The first man then made his way out, and all three, guided by a flashlight of their leader, stole away.

The ladder was left behind, the police surmise, when one of the pegs holding the sections stuck so that it was difficult to take it apart noiselessly.

Policeman Finds Baby, But Name Is 'Lindberg'

WINNIPEG, Man., March 16 (AP).—A man sat in a parked car with a baby on his knee. A smiling policeman said:

"Better be careful or they'll run you in for having the Lindbergh baby."

The man said:

"This is the Lindberg baby."

As the policeman passed on, he said:

"Oh, yeah?"

But ... was. The man's name is Charles Lindberg, and he's a flier in the Royal Canadian Air Force.

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

Popular Barbara Ewing, daughter of the Thomas Ewings, whose marriage to Lathrop Stanley Hassains son of the H. S. Hassiches, of New York, will be an event of next month, is being honored at other pre-nuptial party today. Lucy Ware is giving a luncheon for Barbara at her home in Walnut street. Last night the daughter of the T. Edward Wards, you and I and Patricia will tell you, who entertained for the wedding.

The Allegheny Club had a ma[sk]erade last night, when [pa]tricia Otis Skinner appeared in the smart audience.

Miss Skinner's appearance last night was under the auspices of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters.

In one of the foyer were the Alan Magee Scaifes, the A. P. Woodwards, George H. Love, the Raymond Morelands, and the junior William Christopher Robinsons. Mrs. Scaife wore black velvet with a panel of pearl. Mrs. Woodward, black velvet; Mrs. Love, green and gold lame with a wrap of emerald velvet; Mrs. Moreland, black satin, and Mrs. Robinson, blue velvet.

Nearby, chatting with friends, was Mrs. John F. Wallace in black velvet. I had a glimpse of attractive Margaret Bell, poised for the Easter holidays. She wore a smart gown of white satin with the decolletage ending in a deep V in back outlined in rhinestones. With her was Katharine Frazier, one of the belles of the season, in a quaint Alice blue gown with cap sleeves suggestive of early Victorian fashion, embroidered in dotted swiss.

Mrs. A. P. Bell, Margaret's mother, wore orange crepe trimmed in kolinsky. The three Dent sisters, Rebecca in brown lace and Virginia and Nancy wearing black velvet gowns were there.

Mrs. Simon T. Peterson chose a regal gown of copper red velvet with kolinsky outlining the square neckline. Others I saw were the A. C. Martins with Mrs. Martin in red crepe; Mrs. George P. Bassett in black satin; Miss Laetitia Hunter, Marie Louise Bickford, in red crepe, with her mother, Mrs. W. L. Bickford, in tangerine lace.

Mrs. A. Rex Flinn chose red velvet, and I saw Mrs. W. L. Jones, Jr., Mrs. William Maclay Hall, Mrs. George A. Kelley III in black satin; Mrs. Horace Forbes Baker in turquoise blue velvet.

Mrs. Roy A. Hunt was there with her three young sons and her mother, Mrs. Mortimer Miller. Mrs. Derwin Donnells in black, Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby, in dark red velvet; Mrs. Herbert A. May, Jr. black velvet accented with rhinestones, and Mrs. W. Terrell Johnson and Mrs. Joseph M. Schubert I also noted.

The David I. McCahills were in the audience as were Mary Louise Slucop, Blossom Lomax in green velvet, and Mrs. A. C. Katherine McCloskey.

Others I had a glimpse of were Mrs. Ralph W. Harbison in black velvet, Mrs. Henry Clay McElhowney in blue crepe, Mrs. George Pearson, Miss Eleanor Grier, Miss Ida M. Allerton and Mrs. Thomas U. Chesebrough, Mrs. Albert H. Burchfield, Mrs. John M. Phillips, Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, chairman of the league per sister, Mrs. J. O. Miller, who occupied a box, Mrs. William Reed Thompson in a black and gold lame cloak, and Mrs. John W. Lawrence.

Among those who've been at the Waldorf-Astoria, N. Y., are Laura Collard, daughter of the George L. Collards, and a student at the Sarah Lawrence College, Bronxville, N. Y., and her aunt, Miss O. T. Perkins of Sharon; the E. C. Hughes, of the King Edward Apartments, and the Thomas K. Cress, of Meade street.

Library Committee of City Club Plans Surprises for Party On Friday Evening

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

All sorts of interesting plans, several of which are being kept secret as a surprise for the guests, have been made for the library committee's party at the Woman's City Club Friday evening. Miss Lucetta Burns and Mrs. George Seibel are the guiding spirits who are making the plans for the literary symposium, which is to be the evening's chief feature and which will include reminiscences of literary trails and personages. Here's Enchantress

Aptly named, Enchantress, too—for it is difficult to resist adding this lacy silk hose to your spring wardrobe. The mesh is a cash-mere type of design . . . and has a polka-dotted appearance on the leg. It is suggested for afternoon or street wear and shown in the new spring colors.

Another very sheer mesh hose, "Scandal," made of fine 51-gauge 2-thread mesh is shown in the same shades for afternoon or evening wear.

Fox-Cuff Suits, $49.50

The bigger and fluffier the cuffs, the briefer the jacket must be, for the clever idea of this fashion is to create sharp contrast.

And in the model pictured, you'll note the jacket barely reaches below the waistline at front; and the great, flaring cuffs are of fluffy, animated cedar-rose fox dyed from the pure white. Another model has double cuffs of baby fox dyed Paris blue . . . Both models in beigeen, navy or black. Misses' sizes.

New Lace Blouses—In all-over Irish crochet effect, to go with suits of formal type; short-sleeved, with softly draped front, $3.95.

"Busy" Frocks of Ruffadu $16.50

Here are the frocks that have a "busy" look, for their broad shoulders, their free-swinging skirts, show they are designed for a lot of action. And they are destined to lead busy lives from now on into summer, for their rough fabric makes them suited to general town and business wear, and also for sports.

The Sportswear Shop presents them in five misses' models, in vivid blues, spring green, beige and gold. With trimmings of gay, carnival Rodier prints, brightly contrasting taffeta, and novelty buttons that match the trimmings.

In sizes 12 to 20.

Hence, it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you greater protection against sore throat colds. When choosing your gargle, be sure you choose the one that kills the germs even when you add water. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe! Be safe—and save money!

INVALID MOTHER SAVED AT FIRE

An invalid mother was rescued by her son, while the latter was en route to work early today when fire raged through their home, Frazier avenue, Norwood.

James Lauerrich, 26, who lives across the street from his mother's home, saw the flames while he was dressing and rushed to his mother's assistance. Mrs. Lauerrich, who is confined to a wheel chair, was carried down a smoke-filled stairway.

The fire was discovered by Katherine, 28, a daughter, who awakened her sister, Rita, 20. The blaze started on the second floor from an overheated furnace, police say. Damage was estimated at $1,500 by Fire Chief Max Homer, of Stowe Township.

Volunteer Firemen James McDaniels, Valentine Eggie and Mario Victor, of the Stowe Township Fire Department, suffered slight injuries when they fell on the slate roof while fighting the blaze.

Fire Chief Homer said the blaze, originating from an overheated stove, caused damage estimated at $1,500. Fleming Township firemen assisted Stowe Township firemen.

ETHEL LEGINSKA musical genius of her sex, is on the air from WCAE at 6:15 o'clock tonight in a special program arranged by the Sun-Telegraph. The world-famed concert pianist, composer and conductor is interviewed by Mrs. Charles M. Brey, club editor of the Sun-Telegraph, in a 15-minute program.

Miss Leginska

Like nearly all great musicians Leginska was a child prodigy. She appeared in public as pianist at the age of 6 and made her official debut as orchestral soloist at 16 under the baton of Sir Henry Wood in London. Following that auspicious start she was figured as soloist with practically all the prominent orchestras in Europe and America. In addition, she has toured internationally as a recitalist and has won renown as a composer of the highest merit. She has been guest-conductor of nearly every great symphony orchestra here and abroad. Holding that women are as good musicians as men, she recently organized the National Woman's Symphony Orchestra.

Ruth Etting, heretofore only a "guest artist," makes her formal debut as a radio headliner tonight. She is on WJAS at 10 in the first of her 13-week Wednesday and Saturday programs. Miss Etting is a real studio favorite and has the rare distinction of gaining stardom in four fields of entertainment—stage, recording, screen and radio.

Arthur Pryor's Band and the Revelers Quartet bring a breath of old Erin to WCAE at 8:30. The Revelers sing Chauncey Olcott's "My Wild Irish Rose" while the combined band and concert dance orchestra play "Reminiscences of Ireland."

Program Pointers

Heralding the arrival of St. Patrick's Day, Padraic Colum, Irish poet, playwright and author, speaks on "Irish Myths and Customs" on KDKA at 5:15 p. m. today.

WJAS also starts its March 17 celebration tonight with a special program at 11 in conjunction with the Pittsburgh Musical Society. Jim Hughes, master of ceremonies, sings Irish songs and tells favorite stories of the "ould sod." Miss Emma Bishop, pianist, Charles W. Hall, tenor, and George Matz and his Irish Ensemble of 22 pieces furnish the musical background.

More than 20,000 fans said it with letters and as a result Wayne King and his orchestra are on the air twice a week now with the network program heard on WCAE. His program this afternoon includes "Goofus," a novelty number written by Wayne himself after receiving his inspiration from hearing his musicians play odd numbers for relaxation during a rest period.

Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit are radio's ideally wedded pair, but their tastes in literature, it seems, do not agree. Coming home recently, Frank was not able to find his latest book. He searched the house and finally asked:

"Do you think the dog has torn it up?"

As she retreated to the safety of the kitchen, Miss Sanderson replied:

"Why should he? He can't read."

Fan Fare

RUBINOFF is coming to Pittsburgh the week of April 1 to make that personal appearance which was canceled last fall by the musicians' strike. He signed a contract in New York yesterday for an engagement at the Stanley Theater which, it is reported, will net him $3,000. That is quite a jump from the $18 a week he used to get for his violin numbers at Homer Lane's old American cafe in Liberty avenue, where he made his professional debut. Rubinoff, once a newsboy here, is a graduate of Fifth Avenue High School and for a time was music supervisor at Forbes School. Then he went to New York and became famous, winning nation-wide attention in the Sunday night coffee program on WCAE now starring George Jessel in the absence of Eddie Cantor. Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Rubinoff, his parents, live at 5600 Forbes street.

SIMPLE WAY ALL ENGLAND FOLLOWS TO GROW THIN
Spreading Like Wildfire Here

Recently Brought to This Country from England It Enables the Average Fat Person to Lose 6 or 7 More Pounds Weekly Without Starvation or One Extra Step of Exercise

It seems that the British have found a way to rip off excess fat that's the dream of every fat person. That is, to rip it off without starving, without tiring exercise.

Under an extraordinarily simple and pleasant regimen discovered there, the average fat person loses as much as six to ten pounds weekly, yet suffers no pangs of hunger, no aching muscles, no weakness or depression. Returning travelers from Europe talked so much about it, that it has now been brought to this country. Anyone can follow it, so if you want to get thin, here's your chance.

Eat, Sleep, Drink and Grow Thin, Doing Only This

All the method involves is a glass of water before breakfast—to clear the intestines and tone the system—and a few minor changes in your diet.

Here is what you do: Tear this article out and save it, so you won't forget.

Before Breakfast: Drink an ordinary tumbler full of cool water to which you've added a teaspoon of effervescent salt. (Get the brand named "Andrews" at any drug store.) This to eliminate the usual curse of fat people: accumulated poisons and bloat. Also to cut the moisture weight of your body—sometimes as much as three pounds in one day.

At Meals: Cut out ONLY fat meats. Eat your usual quantity of lean meats and ADD a double supply of green vegetables—spinach, cabbage, fresh peas, lettuce, etc. Then for dessert, shift from pastry and pies to FRESH FRUIT. The more you eat of these the better. They're super-nourishing vitamin foods.

Drink, too, if you like them, sauerkraut juice, tomato juice or orange juice "cocktails" before lunch and supper. Eat fresh fruit, too, before bed if you like to eat before retiring.

That's all you do. No wonder England and all of Europe is cheering this discovery. You lose weight day by day, week by week . . . usually from six or seven pounds weekly to even as much as ten pounds, and feel amazingly more alert and active while you are. Doctors of world knowledge widely endorse this way. The salt tones and clears the system. The vitamin foods take the place of those that build weight and fat, and thus fat goes like magic.

Embark on the Great Adventure of getting thin today. Ask your doctor about this if you wish to be doubly sure this is the simplest, safest way to lose embarrassing bulk. You can get Andrews Effervescent Salt at any drug store for a few cents.

It Is Wise to Stay Out of Our Friends' Troubles

Should we "take sides" when our friends fight? Should we make their quarrel our quarrel?

Simple little question, but it has broken up many a happy circle, and put many an innocent bystander in the dog house.

That is where Ada now finds herself, all because she wouldn't drop Alice when Mary and Alice mixed.

"But I've nothing against Alice," wails Ada. "She has always been lovely to me."

That argument, however, only makes Mary madder and more convinced that Ada is "disloyal."

Does it listen like a slap-stick comedy?

And yet, how many times have you been caught in a jam like that yourself?

THREE FRIENDS

"Dear Sally:

"Something has happened lately that has upset me dreadfully. I have had what amounts to an ultimatum put up to me by an old and very dear friend, and I don't know what on earth to do about it. Can you help me?

"It happened this way. I have known Mary ever since we were in school together, which is longer ago than I like to admit. We have always been what you might call chums. We live not far apart, and we have always enjoyed each other.

"That's the first part of the story. Here's the second chapter. We have a neighbor. While I haven't known this other woman, Alice, nearly so long as I have Mary, we have a great deal in common and I have grown very fond of her. Mary has always liked her a great deal, too—in fact, the three of us have been very close—until just lately, when this terrible thing happened.

AN UNFAIR DEMAND

"Recently she and Mary had a bitter quarrel. I won't go into the details of what it was, because that isn't the point of the story. The point is that the quarrel didn't involve me in any way, and since I liked them both I have simply paid no attention to it, but have treated Alice as always, just as if nothing had happened.

"But Mary now insists that if I were any kind of a real friend, I would have dropped Alice when she had her quarrel with her. Now that seems foolish to me. I like her, and I like Mary, and it hurts me terribly to feel that I might have to give up either of them.

"Do you think I should? Am I a bad friend because I haven't made Mary's quarrel mine?

"I shall be waiting anxiously for your advice. You are so sensible that I feel you can put me right on this. Alice has never mentioned the quarrel to me, and I—well, is it fair of Mary to make such a demand on me? ADA K."

Is it fair? No, my dear, it isn't. We've no right to drag other people into our personal troubles, even when those other people happen to be our oldest and dearest friends.

But how few of us understand that! If we have a friend we feel that we possess that friend. He becomes, forthwith, a part of our personal life. He must think as we do; act as we do; hate and fear, desire and delight as we do. And if he doesn't, we've been wronged!

KEEP DETACHED

All of which is tommy rot. No amount of love can give us the right to possess each other, and that goes for the most intimate relationships in the home, as well as the slighter bonds of friendship.

The other fellow has a right to govern his own life regardless of your preferences and prejudices, and you're unfair, unreasonable and downright ornery if you try to stop him.

So tell that to Mary, Ada. And then proceed to keep yourself as detached as possible from the whole situation.

What will happen? Mary will throw a tantrum, probably; but if you can keep cool, chances are she'll see sense.

And if she doesn't? Then that's Mary's bad luck—not yours.

We Appreciate Truths That in Our Ignorance We Often Resented—Fay King

HOW I RESENTED MOTHER'S ADVICE, BUT NOW I KNOW HOW RIGHT SHE WAS!
THAT BRIGHT RED STONE ISN'T A BLOODSTONE!
WELL—HERE I AM—EXACTLY WHERE THEY TOLD ME I'D FINISH—FAY KING

By FAY KING

The birthstone for March being a bloodstone, I once long ago bought a cheap little ring with a bright red stone in it which I showed about as my birthstone.

All my litle friends admired it, except one. She laughed and said it wasn't any bloodstone and I disliked her for it.

Some years later on a birthday I received a real bloodstone, which I found to be a dark olive greenstone like agate with red spots on it.

My thoughts flew back to that little friend, and I was ashamed to think how I had resented that truth of her remarks.

And so it often is in more important matters. Long afterward we appreciate the truth that in our ignorance we resented.

Biliousness Not a Disease; a Symptom of Indigestion

"Biliousness" is an expression used to describe a condition in which there is a headache and a feeling of dizziness. The victim has a yellowish discoloration of the skin and complains of vague and discomforting pains. He is spoken of as "bilious looking."

Dr. Copeland

The word "bilious" is not applied to a disease, but merely to the symptoms of a digestive disorder. As commonly used it refers to a disturbance of the liver, and is associated with something wrong with the formation of bile.

Whenever there is any disturbance in the processes involved in the secretion of bile, gastric disorders are sure to follow. There may be digestive disorders without any disturbance in the quantity or quality of the bile. For this reason the word bilious is improperly used in many instances.

Digestion is influenced by many things. Primarily the process of digestion depends largely on the condition of the stomach. It is affected by the state of the intestine, liver or pancreas, or even by the health of the mouth. From all these sources come certain juices which act in a definite manner upon the food we eat.

For example, when we chew food, saliva is secreted and added to it. The saliva has a definite action upon the food in the mouth and prepares it for digestion in the stomach.

If the food is not properly prepared before it reaches the stomach, there is interference with gastric digestion. As a result of such interference, an excess of acids may pour into the stomach. These acids irritate the membrane lining of that organ and may cause the discomfort often referred to as biliousness.

Another result of this irritation is to disturb the normal circulation of the stomach. This disturbance sends reflexes to the intestine, liver and pancreas and produces distressing symptoms. The stomach is not able to do its work properly, and food leaves it in the form of a mass of half-digested and possibly fermented material. Then it cannot be properly handled by and absorbed in the intestine.

The thing that causes the most trouble is a lack of alkaline juices. These are necessary to neutralize the normal acid content of the stomach and to overcome the action of the additional acids of which I have spoken.

With decreased alkaline juices, there are likely to be headache and distress in the stomach. Occasionally there may be marked pain in the region of the stomach. A bad taste in the mouth is not unusual. There may be fever, but this is rare. The skin may have a yellowish appearance.

The general discomfort may be due to an absorption of poisons liberated by the incomplete digestion of food. This is one explanation for the severe headaches found in this condition. After vomiting great relief is obtained because the stomach rids itself of undigested material.

Washing out the stomach gives great relief. The stomach is emptied by actually washing the stomach through a tube, or by the administration of certain medicines.

Often the taking of alkaline medicine will relieve an attack of biliousness, neutralizing any excess acids that may be present in the stomach.

Household Hints

Add a tiny pinch of salt when preparing custard. The salt not only brings out the flavor of the custard, but also gives it a creamy smoothness.

For non-greasy marks on delicate fabrics try some ground rice. Shake a little of the rice over the mark and rub into the stuff gently with the forefinger.

Make Bidding Super-Informative.

One reason why "psychic" bids are demoralizing in the long run is because they afford partner misleading information; another reason is that a "psychic" bidder becomes a chronic sufferer from them, employing these bids when the truth would serve better. Even honest bids by a psychic field are suspected by partner. Many a game may be won through partner's late response, provided he trusts you and if the bids can be read clearly. The hand below illustrates how a game resulted from the very informative bidding of one player.

Z and A passed. Y made a third hand opening bid of 1-Diamond, upon four quick tricks plus a good suit. It appeared improbable that an adverse game could be made against such strength. B wanted to picture his hand in the best manner possible; lacking a sound informatory double he bid only 1-Heart. Z overcalled with 1-Spade. A passed. Y bid 2-Spades. Instead of either bidding 3-Hearts, and being allowed to play it at that contract, or bidding 3-Clubs, and having his partner decline support over 3-Spades, B put in a demand bid of 4-Clubs. Z passed and A had to shift to 4-Hearts. Y doubled in preference to bidding 4-Spades and, being defeated. All passed the double.

The opening lead was Z's 9 of diamonds (the suit shown by partner's opening bid). Y's K dropped the declarer's lone J. Y led back his K of spades. Dummy's Ace won the trick. The declarer faces a critical problem. If he leads a trump from dummy, and finesses into Z's hand, that player will return a heart, to cut down dummy's chances to ruff clubs.

Having four clubs headed by the A-Q, Y's best strategy is to play low on the lead of dummy, hoping that either the declarer will take a double finesse, and lose to Z, or that B will make the mistake of playing his K, instead of putting up his J. If B's play is perfect, and he overplays dummy's 8 with his own J, game is assured.

All that B can do is to lead a low heart towards dummy. Z dare not refuse to win the trick with his Q. Should Z venture to hold up his Q the result will not be changed. Z's best defense appears to be to win the heart lead with his Q, and then lead another heart, putting dummy in the lead. A club will be the return lead from dummy. It does not matter whether Y wins with his Ace or lets B's K win the trick. The defenders can win just one club trick, and no more, regardless of what Y does. The most normal happening is that at the end of the sixth round of play Y-Z have won one diamond trick, one heart trick, and one trick with Y's Ace of clubs, leaving Y in the lead. The natural thing is for him to lead a spade, hoping that the declarer may hold one loser of that suit. If this is done B will trump; he will lead and trump his lower club; lead back a spade from dummy, and trump; pick up Z's last trump, and then spread his hand that contains nothing except one good heart and two winning clubs; fulfilling his doubled contract of four.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Prom Tickets

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be graduated from high school in June, and a question arises concerning our school Prom. Would it be correct, providing that nobody from school invites me, to ask some young man out of school to take me to the Prom? And in that case, am I to pay for his bid, or is he to pay for it himself?

HOME GIRL.

Unless the rules of the school forbid your inviting an outsider to the prom, this will be correct. And, if you do invite him, you as hostess, should pay for both tickets. This is part of the hospitality that you are extending.

Thank-You Notes

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Should one write thank-you notes for gifts received if one has already thanked the givers personally? L. P.

Yes, ma'am, most decidedly. The thank-you when we meet a giver, casually or not so casually, does not take the place of the thank-you note.

Whole Harem of Henry Brought to Alvin By Miss Skinner

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Cornelia Otis Skinner is no newcomer in Pittsburgh, but she brought six ladies with her to the Alvin Theater last night who must have impressed the Allegheny County League of Women Voters with the advantages of suffrage. The wives of that much-married saint, he whom Dickens dubbed "Henry the Pig," numbered exactly half a dozen—and Miss Skinner presented a picture of each that would have done credit to Hans Holbein or Lytton Strachey. This young woman, who writes some of the best humor printed in our magazines, is also a gifted actress by inheritance from her father. She wrote the sketches in which she appeared, and she plays them as adeptly as she arranged them. The crowded theater, one of the best audiences of the season, appreciated fully what was presented to them—laughed at the French, understood the German, and marveled at the Spanish.

George Seibel

Without any scenery and with only a few devices of illumination, Miss Skinner realized the historic atmosphere of her work perfectly. If she said it was the Tower or Hampton Court, it was the Tower or Hampton Court. And when at last, as Katherine Parr, she let the audience know that Henry was dead, the audience rejoiced so heartily that the artist had to answer enthusiastic recalls.

HENRY'S DOMESTIC TROUBLE

"The Wives of Henry VIII" is a capital idea capitally carried out. Not only has Miss Skinner gone into the lives of these ladies with as much care as Francis Hackett, but she has extracted their psychology from the episodes of biography and anecdote.

Her most remarkable achievement is the differentiation of the six, the uncouth humor of the Flanders Mare, Anne of Cleves, contrasted with the shrinking shyness of Jane Seymour and the neurasthenic hysteria of Anne Boleyn, the Spanish pride of the first Catherine with the wanton beauty of Katheryn Howard and the placid humor of Katherine Parr. Every portrait was firmly etched and convincing, aside from a Zionistic accent in the Teutonic diction of Anne of Cleves, that baneful fills.

FIVE OTHER REASONS

The matrimonial gallery of Henry was preceded by a series of five character sketches, mostly humorous which have been the most popular in Miss Skinner's repertoire. Most amusing is the Philadelphia lady who solves a problem involving "morbles" for her son Johnny. Most artistic is the gambler at Monte Carlo who has worked out her system and lives on dope.

"Motoring in the Nineties" is an amusing flash-back to the early days of the horseless carriage. "A Lady Explorer" is pro-suffrage directed at the lecturers who visit us to tell of African adventures. "The Eve of Departure" makes sport of the accent and customhouse ethics of ladies abroad.

Otis Skinner thinks well of his daughter, and well he may. Her literary and histrionic gifts are enough to amuse a large audience for an entire evening.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

Sacrifice—In the Modern Manner

CONSIDER BILL. Nothing unusual about the man. He was the owner of a fairly lucrative business in one of the smaller towns on the outskirts of Pittsburgh, Pa. He had a wife to whom he was very much devoted and he had three kids that meant the world to him.

In other words, Bill was the typical American family man. He enjoyed the simple pleasures to which he had always been accustomed, and his greatest joy arrived when he could be with the family of which he was so proud.

The depression hit Bill right between the eyes. He had never been able to save any fortune, and what he had been able to get together went very rapidly once his business began to sink. As he sat at the dinner table at nights, he began to wonder what was to become of him and his brood.

There was Johnny. The kid was graduating from high school that year and was talking of going into medicine. That would cost money: plenty of it. Then the two girls, both great kids. They were speaking of continuing their education in a finishing school. More money.

Where was it all to come from? If conditions had remained as they were before the depression, he could have taken care of things in a satisfactory manner. After all, for whom was he working if not for his kids? But now what to do?

But Bill refused to give in to the family. As far as they were concerned, things were just as they'd always been. During the evening meal that smile never left Bill's face. And if there was anything wrong it would have taken an expert detective to locate the trouble.

After another month, however, he could no longer hold the news back. Instead of improving, his statements had shown the worst business in the firm's history. So, as he sat at the table that night he exploded the bombshell. But just listen to the way in which he did it.

"I don't want you to feel badly about this, mother," he said calmly, "and I want our children to hear everything I have to say.

"I haven't said much about this before. As a matter of fact, I never said anything at all for the simple reason that I didn't want to worry you. But the time has come when I must tell you. And I know you'll all understand. Because we've always been that kind of family.

"My business has become very bad. The depression has hit me much harder than anyone knows, and much harder than I want anyone to know outside of our immediate circle. I can see nothing but darkness ahead and, if I go on as I am now, I will end in bankruptcy. I'm a proud man, as you know, and I think that such a thing would kill me. Accordingly, I am going to sell my business."

He wet his lips.

"I am fortunate enough to have an offer that will enable me to get out without too great a loss. That money will carry us for quite some time. Meanwhile, I'm going to Pittsburgh and see if I can't connect with a position that will bring in a respectable income.

"At this stage of the game, I hate to go to work for anyone else. But conditions are conditions, and we must face them. There are plenty of lawyers and doctors who are driving taxicabs today. So I can't see any disgrace in my present action."

Bill went through on his word. He sold his business the following day — and at a far smaller figure than he had intimated to his family. Some five days later he returned home from Pittsburgh with the news that he had found exactly the position for which he had been looking. He was rather vague about the nature of the job. But his family knew him well enough not to press him when he failed to explain.

"It's a sort of sales job," he asserted, "and it will be necessary for me to be away from home quite frequently. Our routine will not be as pleasant as it was in the past, but the money will permit our home to continue. And that's the most important thing."

He must be a nice guy, that Bill.

Within a year, a great sadness came into Bill's life. His wife died—and his last words to her were that he would continue to watch and protect the children. She still didn't know his exact business, and she didn't ask him then. All she knew was that he had been very sweet to her, and that she wanted him to continue so with her children.

Bill, as you have probably guessed, was running a speakeasy. A good speakeasy where the beer was good and the slot machines rang merrily through the night. He had no more right in the liquor business than half the congressmen have to be in Congress. Yet, like the congressmen, there he was.

The secret was released one night when an old friend of his from the home town walked into the speakeasy with another man. Bill looked at his pal and asked him, as a man, not to reveal this thing that he had learned. The friend promised.

After that, Bill loosened up. He showed his old pal a little cot under the bar and said that he slept there after the crowd had cleared out. He talked proudly of the fact that his Johnny had passed another examination and that Mary would soon be graduating. Smart girl, Mary. Just like her mother had been. Too bad her mother couldn't be there for the graduation. And so on. Oh, well—

"I suppose you're wondering how I could have changed so, Joe," Bill said. "Well, I don't blame you. But it's all very simple. I knew of nothing else to do—and I wanted my children to be happy. As long as they never know, there has been no harm done. I don't matter.

"What I look forward to now is Mary's graduation exercises. I'll be there to celebrate the passing of another milestone. And that means a great deal to me, Joe. A very great deal" . . .

Just two days later, on his way to his office, the friend was startled by a notice in the morning paper. Bill's speakeasy had been raided in the new police drive and the proprietor had been held. Bill had used a fictitious name, of course, but there could be no doubt that it was he.

The friend raced to the jail and, using a bit of a pull, managed to see Bill. The latter man said he wasn't going to fight the case. He was going to plead guilty so that there would be no chance of publicity.

"Don't let's talk too much," said Bill tiredly. "All I ask is one favor. Will you take a letter for me and send it out?"

The friend said he would. And Bill dictated.

"Dearest Mary:" he said. "The company is sending me on an extended trip abroad. But I don't want you to worry because Mr. S——, of the B—— bank, will give you your allowance on the first of every month. Please inform Johnny and Louise to this effect.

"I regret sincerely that I will not be able to attend your graduation exercises. But that, my child, is the penalty of big business. God bless you."

Yes, sir. That Bill must be a pretty nice guy.

How One Woman Lost 10 Lbs. in a Week

Mrs. Betty Luedeke, of Dayton, writes: "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight—I lost 10 pounds in one week and cannot say too much to recommend it."

To take off fat easily, SAFELY and HARMLESSLY, take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it is the safe way to lose unsightly fat and one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle. Get it at any drugstore in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the safest way to lose fat—money back.

But be sure and get Kruschen Salts; imitations are numerous and you must safeguard your health.

"Too True To Be Good" will go on the seat market tomorrow morning, when the Nixon box office will make deals in ducats for this newest Bernard Shaw comedy. It will open in the Nixon next Monday as the fifth and final play of the local subscription season of the Theater Guild. Prominent in the cast are Beatrice Lillie, comedienne heretofore associated with musical frolics of the stage, and Hope Williams.

With a preliminary mail order sale reported as very, very satisfactory, George White's "Scandals" will begin to make the box officers of the Alvin busy next Monday morning. And just a week later than that date, Easter Monday, to be exact, the big revue that recently departed from New York will begin a week's engagement in that theater. Rudy Vallee, saxophonist whom the radio made a crooner, is featured. Comedy will be taken care of by Willie Howard.

The next play to be given by the Children's Theater of New York, in the series sponsored locally by the Woman's City Club, will be "The Secret Garden," which will be presented in the Nixon Saturday morning, March 26. RULING DENIES CITY AID TO EMERGENCY FUND

POLITICS

Gov. Pinchot's Attack Perils Aid Parley

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

Gov. Pinchot, in an untimely attack yesterday on State Chairman Edward Martin and the Republican organization of Philadelphia, has seriously jeopardized the proposed conference of politicians, business leaders and welfare heads, out of which it was hoped would come some concerted and harmonious plan for relief legislation at a special session of the General Assembly.

The suggestion of a new search for relief measures, originating in Pittsburgh and extending to the East — not among politicians — went no further in a concrete way than a conference. If at such a gathering, meeting in a non-factional spirit, a legislative plan could be formulated, then a session would have been urged. But if there was the sam. bickering in a conference that occurred in the last special session, its meeting would have been fruitless.

Mr. Pinchot had been acquainted with the proposal. Certainly it had been suggested that he should sit down with men who have been his political foes, and whom he has fought as ardently as they have opposed him. It was recognized that unless conflicting minds could be brought together all discussion might as well stop.

Gen. Martin had been first quoted in this newspaper as favoring such a conference. The matter had not progressed as far as sounding out political leaders of Philadelphia, though it was approved here by County Commissioner William D. Mansfield, Senator James J. Coyne, and all acquainted with the dire need for relief which the country cannot meet by a bond issue, and which the city can meet only through a substantial tax increase on real estate.

Idea Eliminated Political Advantage

It was assumed Mr. Pinchot would await the meeting of a conference, if one can be had, before speaking his mind.

But he is out now with a statement blaming Gen. Martin and the Philadelphia organization for breaking up relief measures at the last special session. He couples Senator James J. Davis in his attack.

What the Governor says may be true. But the state chairman and organization men have been just as vehement in blaming the Governor for the legislative jam which occurred. The Governor's tax measures were generally unpopular last December. And it cannot be denied that nowhere in Harrisburg, as the weeks of the session dragged on, was there any atmosphere of compromise, either in the Governor's office or those rooms where the organization leaders met.

Now the Governor says that a conference amounts to putting "politics first" instead of human suffering. How that idea can lodge in his mind is beyond comprehension. The whole idea was that there should be no political advantage, that the plan should not be labeled "Pinchot," or "Martin," or "Pittsburgh," or "Philadelphia," but that it might be something whole-heartedly in the interest of Pennsylvania and those in need.

Some critics of the Governor assert that it was this non-partisan theory which did not appeal to him, that he wanted no session without the opportunity to gather to himself some political capital. As to that, conclusions must be left to individual judgment.

The statement of Mr. Pinchot, attacking Martin, the Philadelphia organization and Davis is coincident with the opening of the state-wide primary, wherein Davis is opposed by the Governor's candidate, Gen. Smedley Butler, and the Philadelphia candidate for auditor general, Senator Frank Baldwin, is opposed by another Pinchot man, Ralph Flinn.

Move May Aid Pinchot But Not Those in Want

Endeavoring to pin responsibility for the failure of the last special session may be helpful to the Pinchot ticket, but it will be of little avail to those in want.

To talk of the failures of the last session may seem important, but it is not comparable to the imperative need of sinking political and factional differences and attempting to get these heretofore unreconcilable minds together. Whether Gen. Martin and others were sincere in their declaration for a conference may be open to question by Mr. Pinchot.

At least they had made the offer to attend such a meeting, in which it quickly would have been disclosed who was actually playing politics.

Now, by his outburst, Mr. Pinchot has put them in the position of being whipped into line by the lash of his criticism. That may put a period to the whole hope of harmony, wherein for two or three weeks during a campaign bitterness might have been shunted aside in the spirit of true helpfulness.

That is a much larger question than whether Smedley Butler shall gain votes for the Senate through an attack on the Philadelphia organization and the Republican state chairman—for whom in all conscience it can never be charged that this column ever held any special brief.

Perhaps even now these men may rise above partisanship and meet together, but the path has been made difficult.

Mark Shields will talk on "Political Developments" over WCAE at 6 o'clock this evening.

EX-BOXER WIFE LINKED IN DRUG CASE

One, Suspect Turned Over To Federal Officials as Head of Peddlers Here

Five men and a woman were under arrest today and Detective Inspector Frank R. Boyd announced their apprehension was the first step in the round-up of the city's largest narcotic peddling ring.

One of the men is Johnny Welsh, 29, youngest son of a prominent Beechview family and 10 years ago regarded as one of the best young boxers ever developed in the Pittsburgh district. The woman is his wife, Alice, 26.

Each is being held under a $1,000 bond for a court trial, charged with possession of and addiction to narcotics. They were arrested in their apartment at 701 Ridge avenue, where, police said, Welsh was found unconscious. The result, the officers said, his wife told of "too much dope."

REPUTED LEADER CAUGHT

One of six arraigned before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today was turned over to federal authorities. He is Harry Myers, 48, of New York, said by Federal Narcotic Agent Joseph Colebob to be one of the leaders of the local narcotic ring.

The other men, held for court on possession and addiction charges under $2,000 bond each, are James Hanlon, 34, of 3447 Benny street; Israel Cohen, 37, of 738 Mellon street, and Ben Miller, 39, of 1227 Fifth avenue.

Colebob testified that 280 grains of morphine hydrochloride were found in Hanlon's home; 400 grains of morphine hydrochloride and a hypodermic needle in Cohen's; a quantity of morphine sulphate in Myer's, and morphine tablets in Miller's.

GUN FIGHT RECALLED

On January 30, 1925, Welsh was shot and seriously wounded during a gun battle in the Penn cafe, above 1124 Penn avenue. Byron J. Reiss, one of the owners of the place, was killed and Welsh and Eugene Cursey, of Union Township, so severely wounded that their recovery was problematical for weeks.

A drug-seeking gunman, armed with two revolvers, held up and robbed Dr. Louis G. Ignelzi, 109 Shetland avenue, last night for the second time in six weeks.

Dr. Ignelzi discovered the man ransacking his medical kit which he had left in his auto in front of his office. Going to the car, Dr. Ignelzi was covered with the robber's guns and $25 was taken from him. The robber fled and although the doctor emptied his own revolver after him, apparently escaped unhurt.

Girl, 5 Others Hurt In Skid of Auto

Mary Frankovitch, 19, of 56 Cherry street, Etna, was in St. John's Hospital today with severe head lacerations and five others were injured when their automobile skidded into a pole and overturned on the Perry highway near West View shortly before last midnight.

Police said John Scholtz, 22, of 2612 Mt. Troy road, the driver, told them the accident occurred when the steering wheel of the machine locked. Ray Weber, 17, of 2226 Wahleber street; William Mackazek, 18, of 2714 Mt. Troy road; Catherine Schola, 21, of 2636 Josephine street, and Anna Colton, 19, of Brownsville road, were slightly injured.

8 Passengers Hurt In Elevator Fall

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—Eight passengers were injured, two of them seriously, today when the cable of an elevator snapped and the car fell from the first floor to the basement of a 12-story loft building at 568 Broadway. Three occupants of the car escaped injury.

GUNMEN ROB 2 TAXI DRIVERS

Police today were seeking an armed man alleged to have held up and robbed taxicabs in Baldwin and Braddock townships early today.

Richard Geyer, of 5006 Cypress street, reported that a fare he picked up at Eighth avenue and Amity street, Homestead, drew a gun and robbed him of $6.50 and drove away with his cab in the Glass Run road, Baldwin Township. The cab was recovered at Johnson avenue and Gertrude street, Hazelwood.

C. L. Couch, of 508 Melwood street, was robbed of $28 and his driver's license in a similar manner by a man who engaged his cab in Swissvale and rode to Hanastown, Braddock Township, he reported.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 16.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Dry Congressmen voted not on prohibition, but voted in favor of keeping the people from voting on it. Now the wets are not as sore at prohibition as they are the fact that they was never in their lives allowed to vote on it. The drys can win at a general election now, but let the thing drag on for four more years and they will lose. So it looks kinder short-sighted on the drys' part not to let the people vote while the going was good. But it's one of those things that are out of the hands of the people now, and into the hands of the politicians. The wets have got a handful of drinks, and the drys think they got a handful of votes. Yours ignorantly on the subject,

WILL.

Metro Club Suspects Fight Extradition

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 15.—(AP.)—Donald Joyce, Roy Marino and Fred Bowser will fight extradition to Pittsburgh, granted yesterday by Gov. George White, through habeas corpus proceedings, their counsel announced today.

The three are accused of holding up the Metro Club in Pittsburgh February 14, and also are wanted for robbery in Washington County, according to police.

ARGUE ROAD USE FOR JUNK YARD

The County Law Department is looking up the question whether the right of way of a county road can be used as a junk yard. If such use is illegal the Morganstein Electric Company, purchaser of the abandoned Butler Short Line, will have to remove the junk in question, trackage and ties, thus permitting the Allegheny County Emergency Association to put a number of laborers to work widening the boulevard.

P. J. Chester, director of highways, said yesterday he will refer the matter to the county solicitor seeking legal means of forcing the electric company to remove the tracks. The Morganstein Company bought the abandoned street railway line, but have only removed the copper wire, the most valuable junk. Until the rails and ties are removed the widening cannot proceed, Chester said.

Congress Vote Cheers Brewers And Night Clubs

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Wet-dry vote in Congress is victory for both sides.

There are enough wets to make the breweries happy. And more than enough drys to keep the night clubs busy.

Next time the wets hope to get a two-thirds plurality. The top third is always foam.

Every Congressman is now on record except the three mysterious legislators who telephoned their votes in.

While the wets hope for a majority by next December the drys are contented. They've postponed our April bock beer for another year.

Now it's up to the Supreme Court. Shall we wait until December or shall we brew it now and let it age?

We figure the Senate is in the bag. Rye, barley, wheat and malt are affected and those boys will never vote against the grain.

CHILDREN SUE FOR FATHER, 80

Mrs. Pearl Knight and Merle E. Dunmire, of West Elizabeth, obtained a writ of habeas corpus yesterday seeking to regain custody of their father, Robert Dunmire, 80, for whom the Potter Title and Trust Company was appointed guardian in February after a hearing upon his mentality.

The children alleged their father lived in New Kensington for more than 25 years and at his request after the appointment of the guardian was taken to the daughter's home to live. A few days later, Mrs. Viola Dunmire, their mother, who had not lived with their father for 22 years, took him to a residence in Clairton and demanded $100 monthly for his support, the children charged. They declare she is not a proper person to have custody of him.

Judge George V. Moore fixed a hearing for tomorrow.

LIQUOR RAIDERS FIND DYNAMITE

Twenty-seven sticks of dynamite, believed secreted by bomb plotters, were found under a rear porch of a vacant storeroom at 414 West Fifth avenue, McKeesport, in a liquor raid yesterday, police testified in McKeesport Police Court, today.

Vincent Vispuso, owner, who lives at 416 West Fifth avenue, was arrested after police said they found 15 gallons of moonshine in his home. He was held for court, charged with violating the Snyder Act. He denied knowing anything of the dynamite.

Oakmont Policeman Fired by Council

Patrolman E. E. Plummer, of the Oakmont police department, was ordered dropped from the rolls by the Oakmont Borough Council at a meeting last night. Plummer, who was recently suspended, was charged with "conduct unbecoming an officer."

RIGHT TO ISSUE RELIEF BONDS UPHELD

Solicitor Advises Council Expenditures Must Be Made by Departments

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt today held that the proposed $5,000,000 relief bond issues to be voted on by the people of Pittsburgh April 26 are legal, but the city must administer the funds. He said:

"I am of the opinion, after examining the law, that both the $3,000,000 bond issue for direct relief and the $2,000,000 for employment are legal, but the money must be spent through the City Welfare and Public Works departments respectively."

This ruling, if sustained, means that none of the money sought by the Allegheny County Emergency Association may be spent by it.

COUNTY TO ACT

The proposed $10,000,000 county bond issue to provide employment will be up for a hearing before County Commissioners tomorrow at 1 p. m.

Such a bond issue, to be legal, must be for specific public improvements and not for direct relief, according to County Solicitor J. P. Fife. Possibility of a special election being necessary to ratify the bond issue looms as there are indications that even with the greatest of haste it would now be difficult to get the questions on the ballots in time for the primary.

The finance committee of the Welfare Fund late yesterday decided to finance the Emergency Association program to the limit of the money set aside for the association in the budget. To meet the crisis in finances it was decided to call upon large individual subscribers for advances in their gifts rather than borrow in anticipation of subscriptions.

PLEADS FOR NEEDY

The plea to County Commissioners by the Emergency Association heads was made by Frank B. Bell. He said:

"I realize that our proposal is not sound economically, I cannot even tell you how long these funds, if granted, will last. But we have 100,000 people that will starve if we don't feed them. What are we going to do about that?"

Commissioner W. D. Mansfield asked why the Emergency Association leaders had not put their influence behind federal or state aid.

Frank R. Phillips replied that state aid is being sought and that national relief was avoided because Pennsylvania, being one of the richest states in the Union, would receive only about 25 per cent of the money which its citizens would put into federal relief.

Phillips said the salaries of the directors of the association are donated. Clerks are picked from the relief lists, so that overhead is almost nothing, he said.

Man Hurt Sunday Still Unconscious

How William Lane, of Spring street, Camp Hill, near Carnegie, who was found unconscious on the Sixth Street Bridge, Carnegie, Sunday, suffered a fractured skull was still a mystery to county detectives today. The victim, in Mercy Hospital, had not regained consciousness last night. Detectives believe Lane was attacked by thugs.

New Kensington May Vote on City Rule

Five New Kensington Borough councilmen today began a study of third class city form of government. A petition signed by 100 citizens asking for the change was presented last night. Borough Solicitor Louis Claster explained that the matter could be voted upon at the fall election.

Poor Board Funds Short, 3,000 Families Hungry

Lack of funds may prevent the County Poor Board from giving food to 3,000 destitute families indefinitely, Harry W. McIntosh, counsel for the board, disclosed today, on the heels of criticism by the County Commissioners yesterday because the poor were being given coal only. McIntosh said:

"The first charge on the Poor Board is the 3,600 destitute or insane inmates of Woodville. We must care for them. We will gladly provide all the aid possible for outdoor relief—even though this is not mandatory—if we have the money.

"The Poor Board has to repay a $600,000 loan next August 15, borrowed to make up a deficit. Tax money will run short, because people can't pay. If we are given funds from the state under the Talbot bill, now in litigation, we may be able to give groceries to the families in need. We would like to help everyone, but we simply are unable as our finances stand at present."

Judge S. J. Snee yesterday threw out the motion of the Poor Board to have dismissed the taxpayer's suit of Walter W. Rieni, demanding an accounting.

Tax Returns Fall Here; Crowds Rush Clerks

Taxable 1931 income tax returns dropped nearly 40 per cent in the Pittsburgh district.

Up to last night the government had received $4,000,000, representing the initial payment, as compared with $9,000,000 last year. The entire sum collected in income taxes in the Pittsburgh district in 1930 was approximately $67,000,000.

Midnight was the government's deadline for filing returns without a penalty. An emergency squad of 134 clerks met the last minute rush in the offices of D. B. Heiner, collector of internal revenue here.

Throughout the day, a steady stream lined up in the offices. The clerks lunched and dined at their desks, and it was not until 9 o'clock last night that the rush subsided.

Only 37,000 taxable returns were filed this year as compared with 67,000 last year, according to figures given out last night. The tax decline is general throughout the country, it was reported, and is not as marked here as in other parts of the country. About 83,000 non-taxable returns were filed.

PROPOSE CITY TRAFFIC FINE DEPOSITORY

Delay in Rentals for Park Concessions Now Before City Legal Department

Legislation whereby forfeits and fines collected by police magistrates could be placed in an authorized city depository rather than an individual accounts was being considered today by City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt.

A 220-page audit report of the Treasurer's office prepared by Price Waterhouse & Co. disclosed fines and forfeitures were held in individual bank accounts before being sent into the Treasury.

ACTION ORDERED

Council at its Finance Committee meeting yesterday ordered action following an explanation of the practices by Councilman William J. Soost. Soost's practices while traffic magistrate were questioned by the auditors the report said.

Councilman Robert J. Garland urged immediate passage of a codified traffic ordinance recommended by the Better Traffic Committee to stop traffic tag "fixing." No action was taken on Garland's suggestion. Tag "fixing" practices were exposed in the reports.

In connection with Soost's activities as magistrate the audit report said interest accrued on forfeits and fines was not turned over to the city.

DEPOSITORY URGED

Soost declared:

"Several months ago I asked whether there could not be some city depository named for this fund and I was told no. When the Hiland Bank closed I was informed that the best procedure would be to let the matter rest to see what settlement was to be made by the bank authorities."

Alleged delay by Mike DeRosa Twelfth Ward political leader in paying rentals on barbecue stands in Highland Park during 1931 pointed out by the auditors had the Law Department's attention today, Public Works Director Edward G. Lang said.

DeRosa and his son Mike Jr. owe the city $416.68 according to Lang's figures for rental of two stands during last year. When efforts to collect failed Lang said he turned the matter over to the Law Department.

Solicitor Waldschmidt said negotiations were now under way to bring about a settlement.

City Blamed for Lack Of Bath House Funds

The Oliver estate has not continued to maintain the Oliver baths at South Tenth and Bingham streets because the city administration would not "clean out" an overloaded payroll nor keep the building in proper condition, Henry Oliver Evans, attorney for the estate said today.

The audit of the City Treasurer's Department stated that an agreement exists by which Edith Oliver Rea was to pay $8,400 a year to maintain the bathhouse and that about $40,000 was due on this agreement.

Evans said:

"Now the bathhouse is operated like a private enterprise. Everybody is charged."

SPANN BACKING RELIEF PARLEY

Attorney Dale T. Lias of 7045 Hamilton avenue was indorsed as candidate for the Legislature from the Fifth District at a meeting of Independent Republicans of the Twelfth, Thirteenth and Fourteenth wards comprising the district, according to Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, who presided.

Lias is pledged to legislation for unemployment relief, permanent registration of voters, the abolition of the paid watcher and prohibiting assistance to voters except where the person is blind.

Representative Max J. Spann, seeking another term in the Fifth District, has indorsed the plan for a conference of public officials, executives of relief agencies and others interested in providing help for needy. He said:

"At such a discussion there is no doubt every phase of the present unemployment condition would be thoroughly threshed out and the conclusions would serve to bring to a concrete near the extent of relief needed and the method of meeting the conditions."

Regis E. Carney of 1911 Webster avenue has announced his candidacy for the Legislature from the First District.

The program calls for motion pictures continuous dancing and a stage show, all under the direction of the Women's Activities Committee of the Y. Mrs. Morris Davis is chairman.

SEE INSURANCE AS HEALTH AID

A study of neighborhood insurance against hospital, medical and nursing costs was proposed by M. H. Eichenlaub, president of the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania, in his annual address today in the William Penn Hotel before nearly 400 members of the organization here for the eleventh annual conference. He said:

"Insurance in varied and appropriate forms may be the correct answer to many hospital, medical and nursing ills. It is not at all impractical to take under consideration forms of group insurance, in the hope of re-establishing plans whereby patients, formerly of moderate means, can be restored to a self-supporting basis, insofar as the costs of medical nursing and hospital services are involved."

Illustrative of the financial problems facing hospitals, it was revealed that Pittsburgh hospitals incurred a deficit of $317,116 in the last fiscal year.

Of 1,318,670 days of hospital care given in local institutions 529,971 days or 40.2 per cent were without pay. State aid to hospitals amounted to $386,187.50 or 20.4 per cent of the $1,894,870.55 expended for free service.

Dr. Praises Stomach Formula

"I have been having wonderful success with Caldwell's ACIDINE in a number of cases of acid stomach and liver disorders. I had a patient who suffered from acid stomach and liver disorders for years. She had tried everything without relief. I told her to take ACIDINE in a glass of water before meals. She reported that ACIDINE relieved her stomach and liver disorders. I also suffered from acid stomach and liver disorders. I had tried everything without relief. I took ACIDINE in a glass of water before meals. It relieved me. I am now entirely free from acid stomach and liver disorders. I recommend ACIDINE to my friends. Maker guarantees ACIDINE to relieve stomach disorders. All druggists. Get a box of ACIDINE.

BUSY MOTHER WRITES SONGS

'Most any woman who is the mother of seven children and who does her own washing, ironing, cooking and cleaning, has little time for anything else. But Mrs. Emma A. Nagle, 37, of 1322 Grotto street, East End, has written more than 300 song lyrics in the last 10 months.

Ever since she was a child, Mrs. Nagle has been "thinking up" words to music she hears, but it has been only within the last year that she has written the rhymes which run in her head as she works.

The first song she wrote, "Oh, Oh, Louella," has been accepted for publication and will soon appear in Pittsburgh music shops if she can help finance it, Mrs. Nagle said.

Contracts are pending for several others if her first song can be successfully marketed. She has written as many as 18 lyrics during a sleepless night.

Mrs. Nagle's husband, John, is an automobile mechanic. Twenty-five years ago she went to St. Joseph's School with Harry Greb, deceased Pittsburgh prize fighter, and later was taught wrapping in a Pittsburgh department store by Olive Thomas, ill-fated movie star, she said.

BEAMISH O. K.'S VOTE MACHINES

The revamped voting machines have been approved by Secretary of the Commonwealth R. J. Beamish and the eight machines that have been undergoing rebuilding at the voting machine factory will be delivered to the county today, according to John W. Vickerman, director of elections.

Vickerman, asked at yesterday's Commissioners' meeting how many voting machines will be ready for the primary election, said:

"The Poole Company says they will all be ready. Mr. Wood ($25 a day expert hired by the county to speed up delivery) says he thinks most of the machines will be ready for the primary election."

Two shifts of men working night and day will complete the work of changing the 1,100 machines here to conform to the requirements of the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Traffic Safety Talk For Crafton Group

George E. Clarkson of the highway safety committee of the Pittsburgh Motor Club was to speak on "Traffic Safety Needs for Parents and Teachers" at a meeting of the Crafton Parent-Teacher Association today in the Second Ward school. Mrs. J. T. Loeber, president of the association, will be in charge.

Return of Bags Asked by Goodwill

Goodwill bags in possession of Pittsburgh residents are being sought by the Goodwill Industries, Liberty avenue and Twenty-eighth street, it was announced today. A request was made to have all bags in before the annual bundle days, April 12, 13 and 14.

Cost Accountants To Hear Engineer

Industrial accounting will be the subject of a talk by Robert W. Peden, industrial engineer of Port Huron, Mich., before the Pittsburgh chapter, National Association of Cost Accountants, in the William Penn Hotel tonight. M. C. Conick will be chairman.

KEEPS little AILMENTS from growing into BIG ONES!

It may be just a coated tongue tonight . . . with dull eyes, bad color and breath. But by these symptoms Nature is telling you that you may have a sick child tomorrow.

Help tonight is simple. Tomorrow it may be harder. A single simple dose of Castoria is usually all that's needed to bring relief; it often keeps a serious illness from developing.

Castoria, you know, is the children's own remedy—made specially to give the gentle help their delicate organs must have. It is a pure vegetable preparation; contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics.

In any starting illness such as a cold, a little fever, a food upset, a first-aid dose of Castoria is always a wise precaution.

It's never hard to get children to take Castoria. They love its taste, and are grateful for the relief it always brings to tied-up systems.

For babies or for older children, depend on Castoria's gentle regulation. It has kept many a little ailment from growing into a serious one! Genuine Castoria always has the name Chas. H. Fletcher on the package.

Chas. H. Fletcher.

CHILDREN CRY FOR IT

Women said:

A fast working soap can't be safe!

BUT they didn't know about the New Oxydol then

● If sad experience with other soaps has convinced you that a soap able to soak dirt out quickly is too strong for colors and fine materials—try Oxydol. No longer need you spend extra time washing lingerie because you're afraid to use the same soap that whisks dirt out of sheets!

Women know now that rich suds are what do the extra work for them—that suds are the secret of all easy washing.

The New Oxydol's as mild as May—as kind to hands as it is to dainty things—yet it takes dirt out faster than any soap you've ever seen. Because it makes 50% more suds—richer, longer lasting suds that float dirt out and hold it out so clothes are fresh and fragrant—clean smelling suds that don't ball up or leave a scum.

Use it for dishes too. See how quickly those extra suds cut the grease—how easily they rinse off so dishes are sparkling clean—how much work they save you. And remember that Oxydol softens water. Even the softest water turns hard when you put in dirty clothes or dishes.

Ask your grocer today for a big package of the New Oxydol. Use enough to make rich suds—it dissolves instantly—and see how it lightens all your household tasks.

BRENZEL AND FINNEY SHOW ABILITY

ANY TIME A major league club picks up a young catcher of promise it is considered unusually fortunate, for good backstops are the scarcest articles in baseball. Clark Griffith insists that there isn't a really great catcher in either of the main loops, and scouts report that young ones rich in native ability are as hard to find as the proverbial needle in a haystack. For that reason, George Gibson is congratulating himself on getting a double break this spring, for reports indicate that the Pirates have not only one but two exceptional catching prospects.

Bill Brenzel

Of course, it's too early to get a definite line on the possibilities of any recruit, particularly a catcher, who in actual competition must carry a heavier burden and greater responsibilities on his shoulders than any other player in the lineup. But as far as Pirate practice operations have progressed, the evidence tends to show that in Bill Brenzel and Hal Finney the Bucs have two of the flashiest young marksmen uncovered in any training camp in a long time.

BRENZEL HAS IMPRESSED everybody in the Buccaneers' party as a fine-looking candidate. He is a natural, fast on his feet, has the strong throwing arm so essential, batted hig sweeps shows good judgment in handling the pitchers, his batting holds out promise and the general verdict is that he will improve steadily with experience.

Local fans saw enough of Finney last fall to know that he too is a very bright prospect. Like Brenzel, he is long on aggressiveness, is on his toes all the time, is quick to see openings and opportunities for plays and takes advantage of them with rare judgment, has an exceptionally good arm and is very accurate in his throwing.

FROM THIS PAIR Gibson appears certain to get at least one young catcher who will play a prominent part in helping the Pirate cause this year, and it is not beyond the bounds of possibility that the skipper will decide to keep both for regular use.

And when Gibson O. K.'s a catcher there can be hardly any doubt that the rookie has the goods for if there is one branch of the game about which George may be said to know more than he knows about another it is naturally the department in which the pilot himself was an outstanding star of his time.

THE FIGHT GAME has not known a million dollar gate in almost five years, and no battle except one in which Jack Dempsey was not a principal ever drew that figure. But Joe Jacobs sees it coming back this year, and without Dempsey in the picture. He thinks Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey will attract seven-figure receipts on June 16. "Boxing is ready for a comeback," the manager of Schmeling says. "The customers will turn out when they expect to see some action for their dough. When Rattalino and Ran drew more than $40,000 at an indoor show last week, it was proof to me that fights of the right type will bring in the money, depression or no depression. With a $25 top on the Schmeling-Sharkey show I don't see how it can miss drawing a million dollars."

Frank Packard

A PITTSBURGH BASEBALL product getting off to a brilliant start in faster company this year is Frank Packard. Reports from Gulfport, Miss., where the Baltimore International League club is training, say that Packard is the talk of the camp.

Frank is pronounced the most versatile player in the squad. He left nothing to be desired as an outfielder or hitter, opened Maisel's eyes by the manner in which he handled himself in a trial at third base, and has convinced Manager Fritz Maisel that he is the club's best bet to relieve Baxter Jordan at first base when necessary.

BALTIMORE SCRIBES VOTE Packard to be as loyce and graceful as any infielder the Orioles have had since the days of Jack Knight, and express surprise that such a prospect was ever passed up by the majors. Frank is proving that there was nothing fluky about the record he made last year while with Charlotte in the Piedmont League.

That record was one of the most sensational in the minors. Packard was first in the league in batting with .366, first in hits with 185, first in total bases with 313, first in home runs with 21, first in triples with 17, first in runs knocked in with 123, first in sacrifice hits with 22, third in doubles with 31 and third in stolen bases with 32.

A FALLING-OFF of 20 per cent in college football attendance throughout the country last fall led the collegiate athletic powers here and elsewhere to plan a cut in the price of tickets for all except the big games next season, but now it looks as though part of the cut will be slapped right back on again through the new federal amusement tax. Heretofore, there has been no tax on college football tickets. As played by the schools, the game was held to be part of the educational system. But it is said the new amusement tax will apply to collegiate gridiron attractions as well as to all other forms of entertainment.

THE OLD TAX on sports and other amusements outside the college field has been 10 per cent on tickets costing from $3 to $5 and 25 per cent on tickets costing more than $5. Under the new law the 25 per cent tax will be wiped out and there will be a straight tax of 10 per cent on all tickets costing from 25 cents upward. In addition there is a Pennsylvania state tax of 5 per cent on boxing and wrestling tickets.

Boxing, wrestling, hockey, baseball and other tickets under $3, heretofore free from tax, will no longer be exempt after the new law goes into effect and will be taxed at the rate of 10 cents on the dollar. Graduate managers at the colleges of the city were not prepared today to say what course would be followed in paying the tax on football, and will take no steps until they have received definite information as to the workings and scope of the law.

RUGBY STILL GETS a play in this country, though it was thought to have faded out when Stanford University and University of Calif. (as gave it up after using it to replace regular football from 1905 to 1915.

Some Californians still are strong for the old British sport, and a league that plays games by electric light at Tournament Park in Pasadena every Friday night is said to be drawing crowds of profitable size regularly.

Pete D'Alessandro

THERE IS A strong chance that a Washington (Pa.) boy may carry the Intercollegiate Boxing Conference 115-pound championship back to Philadelphia after the first tournament, which will be held in the Carnegie Tech gymnasium Friday and Saturday nights. He is Pete D'Alessandro, of Temple, standing 5 feet 4 inches, who has compiled a remarkable record since taking up the glove game. This is Pete's second season in the college boxing game, and only once has he been forced to take the short end of a decision. Powell, of Army, nosed him out last year, but D'Alessandro came back to score an easy win over the soldier this season. Pete has defeated McCarrell, of Pitt; Aaronsen, of New York U., and Bruten, of Catholic U., in addition to winning his West Virginia match by forfeit. Terpolilli, of Bucknell, got a draw with the Washington lad last Saturday. The pair probably will clash again here.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 16.—The Pirates displayed a major league brand of baseball as they walloped to an easy 8-2 victory in their exhibition game here yesterday with the San Francisco Mission club.

Hitting power which was lacking on the club last season was apparent in yesterday's contest, the Bucs gathering 14 safe blows, five of them for extra bases, as they pounded two Mission hurlers to all corners of the lot.

The pitchers were not to be outdone by their mates and they came through in scintillating fashion. Charley Wood, who started on the mound for the Corsairs, was nicked for four hits in the first two innings, but he held the locals to two in the next three innings and never was in danger.

NIGGELING IN FORM

Johnny Niggeling, who followed Wood to the mound, hurled in magnificent styles for the last four frames, a pair of singles being the best Joe Devine's batters could garner from his delivery.

The weather was not ideal for good baseball in a fielding way. A brisk wind, which followed the heavy rainfall of Monday made it difficult for the outfielders to follow the ball, while the infielders had to contend with a boggy field that made ground balls take peculiar hops.

Gibson allowed his second-string outfield to play the major portion of the game after starting his regulars. Lloyd Waner, who is suffering from a slight catch in his throwing arm, was removed at the end of the third inning, Dave Barbee replacing him.

Gibson was elated by the manner in which his club took the measure of the Missions in their first meeting. The local aggregation has been faring quite handsomely against major league opposition thus far.

FOUR GO TO TULSA

Adam Comorosky is the latest to join the Buc sailing list, but his injury, while painful, is not serious enough to keep him out of the lineup. Adam received a bruised hip when he dove into first base in Sunday's game with Oakland. The injury has not hampered him in his daily chores, Commy getting two safeties in three trips yesterday.

Gibson announced an additional cut in the squad yesterday. Charles Taylor, Lawrence Bishop and Keith Frazier, pitchers, and Floyd McEwan, catcher, were released to the Tulsa club of the Western League.

He also announced that the Pirates would meet the Mission club Monday in an exhibition game at Woodland, Cal. They were scheduled to play the Chicago Cubs here, but the game was canceled.

KREILING HERO IN WIN OVER NEW CASTLE

By JULIUS LEVIN

One minute, forty-five seconds today represent the most precious time in the history of the New Castle High School basketball team, champion of Section III, for during that brief period Braddock High School, champion of Section VIII, spelled defeat for the Lawrence countians in the last quarter-final battle of the W. P. I. A. L. eliminations.

Coming from behind to overtake a four-point advantage held by the Bridenbaugh charges, Braddock snatched victory from almost certain defeat to win by a score of 25-22 in the Pitt Stadium pavilion last night and thereby assure itself of a place in the semi-finals.

FOUR SURVIVORS

As a result of its victory, Braddock joins Ford City, New Kensington and Charleroi in the semi-finals of the scholastic classic. The Red and White passers, coached by Ham Hudson, will meet Neenie Campbell's Ford City quintet, champion of Section VI, in the Pitt Stadium pavilion Friday night. Tomorrow night will find Charleroi, champion of Section V, clashing with New Kensington, champion of Section I. The two survivors will meet the following Tuesday for the right to succeed Scott High, of North Braddock, as W. P. I. A. L. champion.

Pickles Kreiling, brilliant forward of the Braddock combine today stands out as one of the greatest heroes in the history of basketball in that sector. It was he who came through with the much needed points to enable his team to enter the semi-finals.

New Castle flashing a splendid passing attack coupled with a defense that was keeping Braddock away from the range of the hoop, entered the dying moments of the game with a 22-18 advantage and only one minute and 45 seconds to play. However, that time represented the difference between victory and defeat for both teams.

KREILING STARTS DRIVE

Kreiling shot two baskets in rapid order to tie up the game and Krzywicki added another field goal to place the contest in the bag for Braddock. Just to make the score more secure, Kreiling added a foul. The contest ended shortly after the next tapoff and Braddock, which is making its tenth attempt to win the W. P. I. A. L., had qualified for a semi-final appearance.

Braddock piled up a four-point lead in the first period when it counted eight points to New Castle's four. New Castle, taking a brace with Johnny Uram in the lineup in place of Marvin, made up the deficit in the following period by scoring eight to Braddock's four and the half found the teams deadlocked at 12-all.

New Castle struck its best stride in the third period when the Lawrence countians scored seven tallies to two for Braddock, giving them a 19-14 lead. Kreiling scored a field goal and a foul in the fourth period to make the score 19-17, but Lasky again placed New Castle four points ahead with a field goal.

Buckley counted a foul for Braddock and Johnny Uram did likewise for New Castle, making the score 22-18 with less than two minutes to go. It was then that Kreiling and Krzywicki started their drive that resulted in victory.

Kreiling led the scorers with six field goals and three fouls for a total of 15 points and naturally was the outstanding star of the game. For New Castle, Johnny Uram, Teplica, Lasky and Reiber were fine performers. The lineup:

Braddock	Fg.	Ft.	Pts.	New Castle	Fg.	Ft.	Pts.
Kreiling, f	6	3	15	Marvin, f	0	0	0

Coach Reid said that Romnes is not likely to report to the major league club until after the Jackets have closed their season. The local forward starred for the Hawks in their fight for the world title last season.

College Athletics Subject Of Seals' Program Tonight

Mixing athletics with education will be the theme of a forum to be conducted by the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in their weekly broadcast over WCAE at 7 o'clock tonight.

The athletic chiefs of the three local colleges, W. Don Harrison, of Pitt; Clarence Overend, of Carnegie Tech, and John B. Holahan, of Duquesne University, will answer a set of questions probing into the heart of college sports problems. These queries will be put to them by Harry Keck, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, acting as master of ceremonies.

One of the questions will be "Is the curtailment or abolishment of college athletics at this time desirable?"

Interested? Well, there are more like this one.

Tune in at 7 o'clock and get them all.

The OLYMPIC GAMES

By Lawson Robertson

Head Coach American Olympic Teams

CHAPTER VII.

Olympic games have been a tremendous influence in establishing international amity.

They have done much for democracy. And, in addition to all that, they have made many nations athletically conscious. Conscious countries which earlier had given little thought to the drilling of their youths in ways that would increase health and promote body vigor.

When the games were revived 38 years ago, there were few countries, as I pointed out in an earlier article, with athletes schooled in the sports that make up an Olympic program.

But when the United States triumphed with ease in the track and field games of 1896 and repeated in 1900 this nettled the other countries no little. We were, by our victories, showing up the youth in all other nations, and this was not fancied by our rivals.

U. S. LEADS WORLD

So, bit by bit, an organization was erected in the major nations and year after year the powers within concentrated upon teaching the youngsters the art of fast running, high jumping, weight throwing, etc.

Because we were the modern pioneers and never let down in our ambition to have the world champion athletes, we have managed to retain supremacy. This is not because we have the greatest of all athletes, but because our boys have had early, consistent and expert teaching.

But the other countries have established some splendid schools, manned by keen minds, and these soon will turn out world wonders. Already the Finns have passed us with regard to durability in the long runs. France has some middle-distance runners who are liable to take our measure. Canada, in 1928, produced the champion 100 and 200-meter man and England supplied the king at 800 meters.

GREATEST ATHLETIC GLORY

The Olympics are the only contests wherein it is possible for a servant to meet a nobleman master in a common brotherhood; it is the one program where the racial and color lines are forgotten, where all peoples are enrolled under the single banner of sportsmanship.

To win a championship in Olympic contests is the greatest glory that can come to any athlete. Because this is so each and every youth in the world who has titular ambitions strives hard and earnestly to gain the peak, and whether he wins or loses, he always has the comforting knowledge that he has built up his health and strength—vital assets for the years after his Olympic ambitions have ceased to exist.

Bob Smith, high scorer for the year locally, and Jim (Red) Fergus have been elected co-captains of the Carnegie Tech basketball team for the 1932-1933 season. The election came at a meeting of lettermen yesterday; only one ballot was taken.

Smith hails from Dover, O., and Fergus from Rocky River, O. Bob is a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity and Red is pledged to Beta Theta Pi. Fergus also won his letter in tennis last spring.

The success of the Tartan floor campaign just closed was due greatly to the efforts of the co-captains-elect.

Nick Altrock Says!

BILOXI, Miss., March 16.—I can't remember a season when so many athletes squirted their signatures on dotted lines and decided there was more money playing ball than peddling aluminum ware or running a milk route.

Nick Altrock special delivery.

Only a few guys held out beyond the second telegram, most of them sent back their signed contracts by special delivery.

It's wonderful what a depression can do. All the prima donnas are back in the ballet and it appears as if Babe Ruth will carve $10,000 off his regular salary and start looking for a suite in the poorhouse. I wouldn't even be surprised if this season the magnates put 20 peanuts in a nickel bag.

RUTH SIGNS $75,000 ONE-YEAR CONTRACT

BABE ACCEPTS COMPROMISE TERMS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 16 (INS.)—Babe Ruth, the New York Yankee home run king, signed a one-year contract calling for a salary of $75,000 at a conference with Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York club, here today.

Ruth and Col. Ruppert had been dickering for days over the contract. Ruth had held out for $80,000 for one year, while the Colonel had offered $70,000.

The contract was signed at the Roylat Hotel.

RUTH, RUPPERT DELIGHTED

Both Ruth and Ruppert were delighted that they were able to reach an amicable agreement without either being forced to suffer defeat. The agreement was a 50-50 compromise.

"I am very happy to have the Babe with us again," said Col. Ruppert, as he shook the great slugger's mighty paw.

"I'm right where I belong," came back Babe. "I'm with the club that is going to win the American League pennant, with the world champion owner and with the greatest manager in the world. Tell Connie Mack to clear the track for the Yankees."

SCRIBES NOT SURPRISED

Newspaper reporters who were waiting for the news were anything but surprised. In fact it was a foregone conclusion that baseball needed Ruth as much as Ruth needed baseball and that Ruth and Ruppert, close personal friends, would reach an agreement.

Signing a contract for $75,000 Ruth rose to solitary heights of eminence as the man who has been paid more in salaries than any other player in the history of the game. Without the exact figures at hand it is estimated that Ruth has been paid more than $850,000 as a baseball player.

His total income from royalties, indorsements and literary efforts have raised him above the $1,000,000 class. This sum does not include his investments which have seen his income soaring above that mark.

"Twice as many shaves or YOUR MONEY BACK"

HEPPENSTALL

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Bill Benswanger, the new Pirate prexy, today received a few letters from his traveling Buccos that made him beam with delight after having been bedridden for three days with tonsilitis. The notes were from Manager Gibson and several members of the club. The athletes who thus took their pen in hand were moved to say a good word about Gibby's managerial activities. The pilot wrote in an optimistic vein regarding the club.

Judging from the tone of the players' letters, Gibson has accomplished much in the past four weeks. Not only has he brought the entire squad to a high point of condition; Gibby has won his way into the hearts of the players much after the fashion of Jewel Ens, who also set a conditioning pace that held no brief for laggards.

Now directing his club against Pacific Coast League entries, Gibby is convinced he will show the fans a hustling outfit. The manager is especially pleased with the performances of the younger players, and it is of significance to note that he has a high regard for Hal Finney, the snappy catcher, who may hold the key to Pittsburgh's success in the coming campaign. The pilot's O. K. also is placed on Catcher Bill Brenzel, graduate of the San Francisco Missions.

Two years ago Hal Finney was in the Pirate camp, yet barely noticed. And the Dixie boy was plainly worried and discouraged before he received a word of cheer from a man who knows just when a pat on the back is necessary. Hal, a raw rookie at the time, was plainly on defense when he went to the plate, and he was sensitive enough to know he had made a poor impression in this connection.

Just when things looked bleak for Gibby, Fred Joe Devine brought him out of the anesthetic with a remark to this effect:

"Finney—you're going to make a fine catcher some day. You have a nice style for a receiver and a good arm. You need some coaching at the plate and a lot of practice, but don't let yourself get discouraged, because you have the stuff."

I could have kissed Joe when he spoke like that," Hal told me later as he dwelt on the incident. The gentle admonition had magical effect on the boy who in the intervening two years had risen to a position where he is likely to be a first-string catcher on a major league team.

The Reds being very much "in the red," there is a hint that Babe Herman, home-run hitter extraordinary, will be passed along to the Cubs for a big sum of money. It is altogether likely the Cincinnati people received some cash from the well-to-do Dodgers in the big swap of Monday. If Herman moves to the Bruins, the Red directors probably could collect something like $50,000.

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Guy Salerno vs. Tiger Joe West, 10 rounds, and Harry Harris vs. Jack Tracey, Leo Jendrasiak vs. T. S. Carpenter and Johnny Warner vs. Johnny Catalino, 6 rounds each, Moose Temple.

Hans Birke vs. Tom Hevers, 10 rounds, Oakland, Cal.

Amateur bouts at Natrona, Lawrenceville and Sharpsburg, Pa.

Jack Deagers vs. Big Ed Williams and Freddie Taylor (exhibitions), 3 rounds each, and Bennie McArthur vs. Jimmy Catalino, 10 rounds, and Paul Oyer vs. Johnny Gunn, 6 rounds, Clarksburg, W. Va.

Johnny Mitchell vs. Benny Vaughn, 10 rounds, and Chuck Woods vs. Jack Lazzello, 8 rounds, Detroit.

By HARRY KECK

Sports Editor

Can Tiger Joe West, beaten twice by Paul Pirrone, come back locally and defeat Guy Salerno, Jack Perry's good middleweight from Los Angeles? He faces this test in the 10-round main bout in Jules Beck's Mooose Temple arena downtown tonight.

Guy Salerno

The bout shapes up as one of the most promising of the season at the smaller clubs. Both Salerno and West can box and they also can punch. The winner likely will meet Jack Wilson and continue in an elimination for supremacy in his class hereabouts. Meanwhile Buck McTherman is on his way back, following a layoff and looms as yet another opponent for the winner tonight.

Harry Harris, of Bellaire, O., who has not boxed here in months, returns against Jack Tracey, North Side Negro middleweight in the six-round semi-final tonight. T. S. Carpenter, of New Kensington, and Leo Jendrasiak, of Grand Rapids, are in the second bout, and Johnny Catalino, of West Virginia, meets Johnny Warner, of Clairton, in the opener.

Between Rounds

[illegible] Jones-Paul Pirrone main bout event at Moose tonight having been rescued by the booking wizards after a bout of [illegible] to combat battle with Frankie O'Rourke at Madison Square Garden last Monday night. Matchmaker John Reed, of Moose Square fandom, is putting together a better-than-usual Moose night. The commission granted the request, it was learned, [illegible] Pirrone's record, the [illegible] of whether had show with Jones in the days of the Moose Boss's Jungle Room at Sixth and Penn.

Reports from New York that Max Schmeling will "exhibit" here April 15 are in error. In the first place, the Boxing Commission does not allow no-decision exhibitions, and, in the second, the Garden will not be available for boxing at that time, due to the fact that it will be housing a food show.

The committee reports a block delayed for tickets for the fifth annual amateur boxing show of the Pittsburgh Boosters Club, to be held at Motor Square Garden next Tuesday night. At least 12 bouts will be staged.

Ray Fields, of Cleveland, and Billy Parker, of Philadelphia, have been matched for the 10-round main bout at the Kingston Arena, Friday night. Leo Jack Roberts, middleweight, and Frankie Moore, of the Hill, will box the eight-round semi-final.

Answer to query—It was Firpoon Jim Flynn, not Willie Meehan, who knocked out Jack Dempsey early in the latter's career.

Future matches were [illegible] for the Samuel J. Rosenberg [illegible] Hotel brothers, who did [illegible] a heart at Jack Medoff, [illegible] the [illegible] Negro [illegible] avenue.

Young Jones [illegible] to the [illegible] Franklin Boots and Pete Sterling are in the semi-final.

Bruno McArthur, who bests Jimmy Catalino on the Dempsey card at Clarksburg, W. Va., tonight, wants a return bout with Charley Baxter, with whom he fought that great battle at the Lapidum Arena last Friday night, coming back after three knockdowns in the first round to be just nosed out at the finish.

The A. A. U. [illegible] wrestling [illegible] will be held at the Elks Boys Club Friday night.

The American Legion A. C. will hold an amateur boxing show [illegible] Community Thursday night.

Madison Square Garden in New York has boosted the prices for ringside tickets for the Billy Petrolle-Ruffing flatiron bout next Wednesday night from $5 to $6 and a scramble ensues.

Babe Hunt will oppose Jack Dempsey in an exhibition bout in Detroit March 31.

Jack Clements, gunning for his third straight knockout victory, will be on the Garden card again next Monday night, meeting Carl Gross, of Braddock, in the second bout. Joey Rainone and Max Ehrling will box the [illegible].

A suspension for Benny Ross for his offense here Monday night will knock him out of a bout with Harry Dublinsky at the Arena in Philadelphia one week from next Monday night unless provision is made to permit him to go through with that match because it was made prior to his suspension.

CELTICS DEFEAT RENAISSANCE IN FAST TILT

By JESS CARVER

The Rosenblum-Celtics of Cleveland, probably the greatest professional basketball team in the world, defeated the crack Renaissance team of New York Negro champions, before a near-capacity crowd in Motor Square Garden last night. The score favored the Rosies by 41-28.

It was a splendid exhibition of passing and ball-handling that was offered by both teams, with the clever and veteran Rosies excelling in all departments. The Clevelanders held an 15-12 lead at half time, and with Dave Banks and Pete Barry pooping 'em consistently throughout the second half, experienced no difficulty in holding and adding to their advantage.

BARRY, BANKS STAR

Barry, with two goals, Banks with as many and Nate Hickey, with one basket and a brace of fouls, took care of the scoring for the Celtics in the first half. Yancey dropped a pair, Slocum and Jenkins one each for Renaissance.

The Celtics returned to the fray after a lengthy intermission and went right to work to improve their standing. They ran the score to 26-14 on shots by Banks, Barry and Dutch Dehnert, which brought the crowd to its footsies. Then Holt and Jenkins went to work and sliced the lead of the green-and-white clad experts to eight points, but Nat Hickey and Lapchick advanced the Celtic cause to 37-25 before the Renaissance passers could recover.

Holt, Renaissance substitute, nagged a quartet of field goals in the second half, but trailed Banks for high scoring honors. The Celtic veteran tallied five field goals and two fouls for a dozen points. Cooper, the touted Renaissance center, had a goal and a foul each half.

The game was held up between halves due to a controversy over the guarantee. Promoter John J. Freund, Jr., contended he had made arrangements to pay Renaissance a flat guarantee, while the latter management demanded a 25 per cent cut of the gross receipts.

In preliminaries the Trinity Cathedral Comets played the Blackhawks, and St. Joseph's Lyceum lost to the Rooneys, 43-36. The pro lineup:

BELLEVUE NOT TO HAVE CLUB IN CITY LOOP

By TOM BIRKS

With the City League meeting scheduled for tomorrow night at Books, the possibility of eight clubs being lined up becomes more remote. Conversations with leading sandlot men in Bellevue and Stowe indicate that both suburbs are definitely out as possible City League entrants.

Cy Rheam and Jimmy Greenough have not the slightest intention of applying for a berth in the circuit, and that also goes for Pop Geer, the Stowe sportsman. Rheam and Greenough, with loads of sandlot experience behind them, know it is futile to attempt to have a team in the North Boroughs of City League class. It seems to be generally known that some of the managers are lining up the best material in the district.

BELLEVUE NOT READY

Rheam feels that a team will be organized to play at the newly formed Bellevue Athletic field, if the Board of Trade comes along with a little backing. But Rheam said, Bellevue fans are keenly interested in watching Bellevue boys in action. If it had a City League club, it would have to go out of the town for players, and Bellevue fans are not interested in out-of-town players.

Jimmy Greenough, always a popular favorite in the North Boroughs, feels the same way. In a few years Bellevue may be ready for that class of baseball, Greenough says, but not now, with conditions as they are.

Pop Geer was in the same frame of mind when queried on his ideas along City League lines. Geer always was a standby in semi-professional circles, but feels he will sit back and watch developments for this season at least.

ROX LOSES SEMLER

While in McKees Rocks, the Semler angle came up, and Pittsburgh sandlot fans will miss the work of the greatest twirler in this district, for Joe will be back with Hazleton. Joe thinks that Jakie Pitler is the greatest manager in the world, and is tickled to play for him. Reporting to the training camp is four weeks away, and many things can happen in that time.

The Wilkinsburg Murs will hold their first meeting of the season at 8 p. m. Friday evening at No. 2 Wilkinsburg Fire Station. The team again will be a member of the Greater Pittsburgh League. All of last season's players, and any new ones interested, are expected to attend this session.

BOROTRA, BELL MEET IN NET PLAY TODAY

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—The national indoor tennis meet, a bulky business to begin with, began to get somewhere as Jean Borotra, France's old master, and Berkeley Bell, one of America's chief hopes, battled through to the quarter-final round.

Borotra yesterday eliminated young Eddie Jacobs, of Baltimore, 7-5, 6-3, and Bell erased Ernest Kosian, of Hamilton, N. Y., 6-2, 6-1.

As a result, Borotra and Bell will clash in today's feature match, the winner to enter the semi-finals for the crown the Frenchman now holds.

Finance Gets Over Fright; Hopeful Sign

—By B. C. FORBES—

Mr. Forbes

REASSURING: The finest world quickly recovered its equanimity following the Kreuger and Ea... shocks. ... justifiable ... duction ... security and ... other ... already ... been ... down ... that the ... natura... ment ... ware.

Not ... ago the financial community was on ... hooks day ... lest ... depressing events break. Now the disposition is to look for helpful developments. The mere fact that nervousness has given place to hopefulness is real to faith.

Financial leaders feel the facilities are now available to meet any conceivable emergency and to infuse fresh life into business. Intelligent investors realize that the securities and industrials speedy settlement of tax proposals at Washington would improve sentiment still further.

GEORGE EASTMAN has very different ideas from Rockefeller's concerning money. Rockefeller believed in borrowing little and left no stone unturned to enable him to keep down his debts. Eastman believes in borrowing to expand. He chuckled as he related to me how a bank president stopped him on the street and informed him that he had gotten too large and that he must come and face the bankers' directors next day. Said Mr. Rockefeller:

"Good. I need more money."

And his face lighted up with a smile as he recalled that early-day incident, he added:

"And I got more money from them."

Eastman was handicapped from boyhood by certain fears. He hated debt. Above all he dreaded poverty. He told me that long after he was a millionaire he suffered acutely from nightmares which plunged him into poverty. Later in life his special dread was ill health.

Only last year when I asked him what had yielded him the greatest satisfaction in life he replied:

"Having been able to create a business which gives employment to thousands of people, and the thought that my organization will be permanent."

Manifestly when illness overtook him he concluded that the organization could function entirely satisfactorily without him. Was there not something Spartan-like in his mode of exit?

THE SEATTLE Automobile Dealers Association wires this column:

"Seattle's 1932 automobile show broke all records for attendance, an increase of 215 per cent. This indicates plenty of money in circulation and improved conditions for the coming selling season."

BANKERS ARE at last thawing.

AFTER EXPLAINING how Washington proposes to double taxes on life insurance companies, George I. Cochran president of the Pacific Mutual Life writes this column:

"I cannot understand why such a plan should even be suggested. Life insurance companies represent the thrift of the country, they are the institutions which have done the most to alleviate the present distress, they represent the savings of probably 60,000,000 people in all ranks of society.

"With such a heavy tax, life insurance companies would naturally confine their investments to tax-exempt securities, throwing a tremendous burden on the borrowing public. Also, they could not afford to invest in mortgages unless they raised rate of interest to meet the tax.

"I feel that life insurance companies should assist in the present crisis but not to a greater extent than other corporations."

Yet some lawmakers would cast aside the lucrative sales tax and pile on special taxes which would hamstring business and prosperity.

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—

BUSINESS

Activity Is Unchanged But Leaders See Signs Of Improvement Ahead

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

BUSINESS ACTIVITY shows a reluctance to change.

Food growers for material for the new crop have not yet been placed but they are expected within a week.

The banking and credit situation shows definite evidence of improvement.

Corporation earnings for the first quarter of this year in most cases will show an improvement, or will be less satisfactory than in the final three months of 1931.

Leading bankers admit that there is little actual change in the situation, but they declare that there have been indications of improvement which have not been apparent in past business statistics.

The importance of the Kreuger and Toll financial troubles in that regard will be generally overestimated, so far as the country is concerned. The Kreuger suicide seems to have no relation to his business affairs.

This in brief summarizes the situation facing finance and industry at the present time.

Business Activity Shows Slight Gauge

TAKING BUSINESS activity first we find that there has been no definite trend. Local business measured by steel activity is drifting. Production improved slightly early in the year, it wavered for a few weeks, then declined slightly.

Regarding activity in general the American Institute of Finance says:

"The index of business activity for February is minus 68, against minus 67 for January. In other words, there was practically no change in business activity during the past month. While it is too early in the month to be dogmatic, indications so far in March are for a definite turn upward before the end of the month."

Ford to Start On New models Soon

REPORTS FROM Detroit declare that Ford has been slowly accumulating materials and that the first few models of his new cars will be ready for exhibition within a short time. The vast dealer organization alone requires a large number of cars for purely demonstration purposes. Production to supply this initial requirement will be started within a few weeks and the first large orders for materials will be placed next week.

The drop in the number of bank failures and the reduction in currency in circulation give sufficient indications of the improvement in the banking situation.

No great amount of insight into business conditions is needed to form the conclusion that first-quarter earnings of most corporations will be discouraging. The volume of business has not increased. Prices have declined in some cases. But the earnings of business for last year or even for the three months about to end are not of primary importance. We are more interested in current conditions and whether they indicate that business is improving or growing worse.

Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust Company and noted economist, declares that business conditions are genuinely better this month than they were in December or January despite the fact that business activity is not greater now than it was then. Col. Ayres said:

"The improvement is in the fundamentals rather than on the surface. It is present in fact, even although it is to but slight degree reflected in the figures. In recent weeks there has been a long series of developments that are either directly conducive to business improvement or are safeguards against continued decline."

MOTOR DELAYS HIT STEEL

NEW YORK, March 16 (from Associated Press).—

Not only has the Ford Motor Company failed to fulfill its recent promises of large steel orders but the delays in its production schedule have showed up other automobile manufacturers to such an extent that steel mill schedules have been adversely affected. The recent mild expansion in the requirements of miscellaneous consumers has not been sufficient to offset the lack of important buying by major steel-consuming groups with the result that ingot production has declined 2 points this week to 25 per cent for the country as a whole.

A slight expansion is occurring in the calls for steel from the railroads and for building construction but the aggregate of such tonnage is having no appreciable effect on mill order books or steel output.

Price stabilization in steel products, however, is making progress.

Steel plant operations this week have declined at Pittsburgh, Wheeling, Cleveland and in the Valleys. Chicago shows a slight improvement, while the Eastern Pennsylvania, Buffalo and Birmingham districts are barely holding at last week's rates.

STOCK PROBE DELAYED

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The investigation into the trading in securities on the various stock exchanges of the country ordered by the Senate recently may be further delayed, Chairman Norbeck (Rep.), South Dakota, of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee states.

The investigation had been held up pending disposition of the Glass bank reform bill, which had a preferred status before the Banking Committee, which is to make the inquiry. It had been said the inquiry would be put under way following action on the Glass bill. Senator Norbeck now says the home loan discount bank will be considered by the committee before the investigation of stock trading is taken up.

Bond Market Sentiment Continues Better Than In Stocks

Bonds have been experiencing in this period a very big improvement in bond circles' conditions much better even than in the stock market. Those who have been most active on the long side of bonds point out that these securities could become quieter because there was a recovery of approximately 5 per cent from the lowest point reached in the bond averages during 1931. The belief exists that any good recession in the bond market would encounter excellent scale buying.

New York, Ontario and Western has continued to make a good showing this year. In 1931 the road was outstanding because it was able to report an increase in gross revenues over the preceding year. This improvement has been maintained this year, for in January there was an increase in net operating income of 2.5 per cent over the same month of 1931.

There is growing belief that the rebellion was in process of during the rallies recently. The action of the market in backing away from the previous high and the increased resistance which appeared during the latest recoveries are responsible for this opinion. Also, quarters believe that there has been reduced activities on the part of the pools which had been active in a number of stocks up to a week or 10 days ago.

The fact that these speculative favorites of the many groups receded with other shares is viewed as reflecting that distribution was responsible for many of these stocks churning around near their previous peaks of the rally movement. This opinion has been responsible for keeping many customers of commission houses on the side lines in recent sessions by the withdrawal of scale buying orders, which have been in the market at slightly lower prices.

Railroad shares have taken their place finally in the center of the speculative stage again, and the action of this group is among the really dependable factors of the movement. Selling over most weighted boards on the carrier shares presumably influenced by unfavorable forecasts with regard to the showing of carloadings for the week ended March 5. Estimates indicate an increase of 24,000 cars over the previous week which would be keenly disappointing not only as it applies to the rails but also for its barometric bearing on the ebb and flow of general business. Inasmuch as comparison is made with the closing week in February, which included a holiday, the indicated gain would be viewed as substantially below seasonal proportions.

Trading in Kreuger & Toll and affiliated issues continued yesterday to contribute substantially to the business of the day, but the turnover in that group was far smaller than on Monday. The terrific rush of selling in American certificates subsided and that issue enjoyed a decidedly stable market through the day. International Match was firmer, while Kreuger & Toll debentures rallied moderately and International Match convertibles and debentures similarly were a little better. While the financial community felt that the threatening aspects of the situation had been much exaggerated, opinion still seemed to be that a waiting policy was advisable until more detail is available.

WHEAT SHOWS UPTURNS

CHICAGO, March 16.—Upturns in grain values took place early today responsive to news of broader trade. Atlantic demand for wheat. Purchases shown by seaboard terminal elevators to fill several. Opening prices, 1c higher, wheat afterward held near the initial range. Corn started ⅛c to ¼c up and later showed little tendency to react.

Adding to bullish sentiment among wheat traders were authoritative unofficial reports that West Texas wheat prospects were poor owing to moisture shortage and poor stand. A Chicago crop specialist wired from Amarillo, Tex., that unless rain came soon the territory from Kansas southward might not raise much wheat. There were also official advices that some damage had been done to wheat in the Ohio Valley parts of the crop that were jointing being hurt by recent abnormal cold.

STOCK LOSSES GENERALLY SMALL

Early Morning Rally Gives Way to Decline — Rails Bear Brunt of Selling

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—The stock market was called on today to assimilate further unfavorable dividend actions and reports of lessened business activity as registered in important trade barometers, but turned dull on a generally moderate reaction.

Losses, while general, were mostly small although some specialties reacted sharply. An early morning rally gave way to receding values as market technicians voiced considerable skepticism over further advance at this time because of the apathy of the rails. The carrier stocks bore the main burden of what little selling appeared with declines of 1 to over 2 points in Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Delaware and Hudson, New York Central and Canadian Pacific.

R. H. Macy broke more than 5 following reduction of the dividend to a $2 annual basis. United States Steel confined its loss to narrow proportions, although trade reports placed current production for the industry at 25 per cent of capacity against 27 per cent last week. Announcement that the Stockholm Stock Exchange would suspend trading in Kreuger & Toll when it reopens next Monday brought further selling into that issue, several blocks of 5,000 to 25,000 shares appearing on the tape. The price fell to a new low. Eastman Kodak, International Business Machines, Allied Chemical, American Telephone and Corn Products declined 1 to 2 points.

International Match preferred broke several points to a new record low on announcement that the dividend had been passed.

Some of the tension lifted in railroad circles when reports gained ground that the April 1 Missouri Pacific financing requirements would be met. Despite this more encouraging aspect, however, railroad bankers continued to point to the need of a general business improvement in order to restore the carriers to normal earning power.

Electric power figures for the week showed 8.2 per cent less production than one year ago. This compared with 8.7 per cent decline as of last week.

On the cheerful side, February foreign trade figures showed exports of $155,000,000 for the month, a gain of $5,000,000 over the January total. This marked the first time since 1916 that a gain had been registered in February over January.

TRADE BALANCE FAVORS U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP.)—The United States had a favorable foreign trade balance of $24,000,000 during February.

The Commerce Department announced today that preliminary figures showed exports were $155,000,000 and imports $131,000,000. Exports in February, 1931, were $224,346,000 and imports $174,946,000.

Gold exports during February totaled $128,211,000, compared with $14,000 in February, 1931. Imports were $37,585,000, against $16,156,000.

Exports of silver were $942,000 in February, compared with $1,638,000 in February, 1931. Imports were $2,009,000, against $1,877,000.

Big Kreuger Unit Passes Dividends

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—Directors of the International Match Company at their meeting today omitted action with regard to payment of quarterly dividends on the preferred and common stocks. The dividends are ordinarily payable April 15. Previously the company paid $1 quarterly on each class of stock.

Failure of the management to act on the dividends was ascribed by Wall street to the unsettlement growing out of the suicide of Ivar Kreuger on Saturday. International Match Company is one of the principal units of the Kreuger & Toll organization. All of the common stock is held by the Swedish Match Company.

Pennsylvania Mill Employment Gains

PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—(AP.)—An increase of nearly 1 per cent in factory employment in Pennsylvania from January to February was accompanied by a fractional decline in wage payments, the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia reported.

Transportation equipment, foods, tobacco and leather products groups showed the largest employment gains, the report stated. The metals group, it said, was the only one which did not show increases in payrolls, with the largest gains occurring in textiles, foods and tobacco and leather and rubber products.

TEMPLE MITT ACE FAVORED

The punchers who tip the beam at and around 135 pounds and are booked to battle for the title in that division in the first annual tournament of the Intercollegiate Boxing Conference at Carnegie Tech Friday and Saturday will find quite a stumbling block in Temple University's Bill Beloff.

Bill Beloff

Beloff ranks with the best 135-pounders in the East. He has been a consistent winner for the Owls in their dual meets this season. He is a brother to the wizard of the Temple ring coach Dave Beloff. His class and record figures to establish him as a favorite over the other 135-pound entries Santicola of Pitt, Hedegerts of Carnegie Tech and Hamilton the lad with the clever left paw from West Virginia.

The Temple and Bucknell squads are expected in town tomorrow evening their early arrival being arranged so that they may have a good night's rest prior to the semi-final bouts Friday. At noon Friday the officials of the conference will gather to make the draw and to decide on the location of next year's tourney.

CLUB CHANGES NAME

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 16.—(AP)—The springfield club of the Western association, perennial pennant winner and seat of baseball activities known as the Springfield Cardinals between 1926 and 1931, inclusive, when the St. Louis Cardinals have operated one of their minor league farm clubs here, changed its name to the Springfield Red Wings.

Sport Vignettes

How about "foul checks" to cover such a situation as occurred when Benny Bass was disqualified in the third round of his bout with Frankie Belarski at Motor Square Garden last Monday night?

The fans paid for 10 rounds of fighting in the main bout and got a fraction of more than two.

Bass money was held up. It probably will go to the state. It belongs back in the hands of the people who paid it or at the very least should be given to a worthy local charity.

The fans have no redress under existing conditions and plenty of them are yelping about it.

When a baseball game is called for any reason before at least one-half of it is completed the fans may cash in their rain checks for tickets for future games. Some such system ought to apply in boxing as well. A "foul check" or emergency stub attached to the ticket would cover the situation.

It is Attorney Sheik O'Connor's proud boast that he played in something like 18 out of 22 games for the Duquesne University basketball team during the 1924-25 season and failed to score a goal. He was known as the Scoreless Wonder, and he kept this record intact a few nights ago when he started at center for the Duquesne Alumni against the varsity and took himself out of the game after about five minutes' play when he felt what he believed to be a field goal coming on. Sheik is a candidate for Congress and wants to stand on his record.

Howard Marberry, the East End sage says he thought all along the Bass fight would be fishy.—HARRY KECK.

IMPORTANT MATTERS TO CONSIDER WITH RESPECT TO YOUR ESTATE

Duties Too Onerous to Put Upon a Friend

A brief consideration of the manifold duties of an executor reveals at once the complex responsibilities which so often are thoughtlessly passed on to a relative or friend. The duties are too numerous to describe in detail but summarized, require that—the Will be probated;

the property be inventoried and appraised for tax purposes;
claims be advertised and settled;
debts be collected when due;
a program be prepared for handling any business owned;
special instructions be carried out with regard to real estate or other assets; inheritance, estate and income taxes be paid;
funds be provided to meet expenses necessary for the distribution of the estate;
an accurate and complete record be kept of all receipts and disbursements and an accounting filed with the Orphan's Court for approval;
the estate be distributed to beneficiaries or trustees as instructed in the Will;
if Trusts are created, investments be selected and supervised in accordance with the terms of the Will.

These and the many other duties show how important it is that you should consult with your attorney in regard to the proper drawing of your Will and select as Executor of your Estate a trust company equipped with the personnel, experience and facilities to protect your interests.

Lily Lou Finally Decides On Trip to Europe With Opera Singer

CHAPTER XXXVI

"Is it Gwin's child?"

The prima donna's question went singing on through Lily Lou's ears, buzzing and echoing as if it would never stop.

Lily Lou saw that she had nearly overturned the tray. She drew back quickly. "No!" she said.

"No? mmmm . . . and he's not jealous?"

This was what Lily Lou had been singing that the woman was talking to . . . hands as if she were a . . .

"I was married," she cried desperately. "I married a boy who was 21, quite 21 and his parents knew—attributed—but I left, and came to New York."

"Ah, yes . . . to the big city."

"No, not on that account. His father—"

"His father is backing you." He has money." The prima donna's blue eyes had narrowed.

This was no time to hedge. Lily Lou sensed that. "He is a wealthy man," she said, and he gave me my train ticket east and $500. I have $150 of it left. But I hope to send it all back to him as soon as I am earning a little more. I don't know whether you'd say that was backing me or not . . . is it?"

"No. But the child. They will provide for it? You have a settlement?" Or will they take it?"

BECOMES HOMESICK

No! Oh, no. They don't know about it. I didn't tell them. I have enough money—I can manage. I'll go to some little place for a while in France . . . that is, if you'll take me—and then to the American hospital at Neuilly and you won't be bothered—really."

"But you can't do that. You must write—or wire immediately. A marriage can't be annulled when—"

Mme. Nahlman thrust one fat pink silk leg out of bed. Lily Lou had a vision of her wiring the Sargents of old Mr. Sargent getting the news, and Ken and Peggy climbing together, cowering away from it.

"No, I can't tell them now. It's too late. He's engaged to be married again. Maybe he's married—for all I know—"

Lily Lou's chin quivered. She was suddenly homesick. She wanted to get away from this strange room, and this strange woman, and all the strange sights and sounds of the city. She wanted to bury her head on her mother's lap and hide there, with her face against her mother's voluminous skirts, with the tangle of honeysuckle and passion vine shutting off the front porch and the old rocking chair, from the quiet street.

She didn't mind the thought of defeat, of coming back in disgrace, a failure. She didn't mind anything, but being here all alone with these people who had foreign ways of thought and speech. She wanted to be home again, where someone cared, and things were safe and unchanging.

She whisked a stray tear out of her eyes, faced the strange, kindly prima donna determinedly. "You see—I can't tell them."

Mme. Nahlman reached soft, fat arms to her. "No, darling child, you can't tell them. And what do we care for them? Nothing! Those devils, men! Never mind. No man is worth crying over. But you must never trust one again. There, reach me my handkerchief. You see how I am? All heart—I wear myself out on other people's troubles, but I cannot help it. It is my curse—my temperament. See, I am crying more than you! Now we shall stop. I'll have more hot coffee, and then I shall be better. You too? No? Oh, yes, just a taste, from my cup . . . good?"

Lily Lou drank from the cup, set it down again with a steady hand.

"That is right!" Mme. Nahlman said briskly. "Courage. You have it too. You will make a singer. My first thought was right. My first thoughts are always right. It is only my second thoughts . . . One of your duties will be to keep me from listening to my second thoughts . . . you hear, that?"

UNABLE TO DECIDE

Lily Lou nodded. She did not trust herself to speak. She wanted to leave, to get away from here.

Nahlman glanced at the jeweled clock by her bedside. "Eleven! It is not possible! Now you must go. I have a friend coming. He must find me beautiful—"

She slipped out of bed, a billowing mountain of silk and lace, beamed tearfully upon her audience. "Tonight! We meet on the boat tonight. Now kiss me, and go!"

Lily Lou kissed her. She went out, and stood in the hall outside the door, for a long time. She thought, "I won't go. I can't. I'll go crazy or something!"

On the way home she turned it over in her mind, arriving at no conclusion.

Mrs. Manchester had a bon voyage basket, big as a young clothes-basket, ready on the table in the hall.

Lily Lou looked at it. Examined the jars of jam and conserve, the two new novels, the box of candy, through their transparent, shiny wrappers. Sniffed at the red roses and waxy lilies of the valley tied on the handle.

"Now, now! You're not homesick already, my dear? You flatter me, not wanting to leave me!" Mrs. Manchester gushed, patting her playfully.

"Well, I am a little homesick, I—I sort of hate to go."

"Of course you do. But think what a glorious time you will have with the famous Nita Nahlman Parties, receptions. All the famous people in Europe. Really, you don't know how fortunate you are!"

Yes, I'm awfully fortunate," Lily Lou said. She thought of Mme. Nahlman, and the parties and gaiety. It would be very wonderful . . . oh if she could only go home instead!

"Was there any mail?" she asked nervously.

I think so. SA-DIE! What did you do with Miss Lily Lou's mail?"

They found it. Two letters and a postcard. The postcard was a picture of the city hall in Oakland. It was from Raymond's father and said: Best of luck in the big city. Kind regards from yours truly, R. W. Kittredge."

The air mail letter was from May, and the other came from her mother. She opened her mother's letter first. It had a leaf of rose geranium enclosed, and a scrap of blue dotted swiss. "Your father is painting the kitchen while he's at it. It will take three coats to cover the old paint. I aim to get one of those coal oil ranges before summer, though the wood range has such a good oven. I don't know that I can give it up. The swiss is for the curtains."

Lily Lou read it through slowly. Then she read May's letter. Irene was going to have a baby. They all, even Raymond's father, felt sad about it, but of course they didn't tell poor Irene. And now everybody would have to give her presents.

When she had finished reading it, Lily Lou stuck it in her purse with her mother's letter and her passport. She went into the room that had been hers and looked at her piled luggage. It was hard to tell whether everything had been done. Frances Bradford had moved in already. Her clothes were piled on Lily Lou's bed.

Oh, I'll go!" she thought automatically, pressing her throbbing head with her cold hands, hardly conscious that it was aching. "I'll go. I can't do anything else. And I hope the ship sinks."

Madge's Heart Flutters as She Gazes on the "Surprise"

With Junior and Roderick ranged on either side of me, clasping my hands so tightly that they tingled from the pressure, I walked around the house toward the orchard. We were followed by the entire family. Hank and Bill racing ahead and the rest following more sedately. Behind me, I heard my mother-in-law cautioning Katherine not to jolt Baby Faith in her carriage. So even our Little Princess was to share in the surprise that patently had been prepared for me!

As we came to the corner of the house from which the first glimpse of the orchard could be seen, Junior and Roderick pulled at my hands haltingly.

"Shut your eyes now, Mums!" Junior commanded, and from the other side Roderick seconded the injunction with: "Yes, Auntie Madge, shut your eyes tight and don't open them until we tell you to. We won't let you stumble. Just hold on me."

"Where do you get that 'me' stuff?" Junior demanded, bristling. "She's my mother. I guess she'll lean on me if she leans on anybody."

With a little sigh, I realized that Junior had not yet overcome the jealousy of Roderick, that makes the stay of Ducky's nephew in our home a problem. But I wanted no session of discipline today, if I could avoid it.

I think Roderick means 'us' instead of 'me,' dear," I said.

I gripped Junior's hand hard as I asked the question, and when his chubby little fingers closed like a vise on mine, had the thrill which comes to a mother when a child responds to her guidance instead of resenting it.

"Sure I mean 'us,'" swaggered Roderick, who evidently saw the light, and Junior countered in the same swaggering fashion with a handsome "that's all right. She'll lean on both of us," which evidently saved the day.

With my knowledge of both young lads, I knew better than to make any further comments, only venturing a mild "Shall I close my eyes now?"

"Yes, this very minute," Junior said, and putting up a special petition to my particular little joss that I would not measure my length on the grass, I closed my eyes and clinging tightly to the hands of my small son and Ducky's nephew, made my way along the path to the orchard.

Now, Mums, open your eyes!" I obeyed dutifully, gasped and gave a delighted and astounded exclamation at what I saw.

Beneath the shade of the biggest apple tree in the orchard, the great limbs of which stretched protectingly over it, was a small rustic bungalow. Its supporting posts were the trunks of trees with the bark left on, and the railings and supports of its wide screened porch came from the same woodland at the back of the farm. Roughly constructed, it had certain rustic beauty which bespoke the artist's touch in planning.

Oh! how exquisite! What is it? Whose is it?" I exclaimed.

Can't you guess," Ducky's voice sounded close to me and I looked up to see him smiling down at me. But I was given no opportunity to guess. A chorus of "It's yours, your rustic studio, to write in" sounded from all around me, led shrilly by Junior and Roderick, whose hands, still holding mine, began suddenly to tug me forward.

"Look it, Mums! See what's inside!" Junior cried. And Roderick echoed his injunction, syllable for syllable.

I went with them dazedly, and threw open the door of the big screened veranda which formed the greater part of the bungalow. Rustic chairs, comfortable couch hammock, a low table with my typewriter and manuscript paper piled neatly upon it, and a small bookcase holding some of my most used books of reference, made me realize how carefully it had been planned for me.

"This is your castle in fine weather," Lillian said. "When it rains or hails or gets cold, you can come back here in the donjon keep."

She opened a door leading from the veranda, and the little boys pulled me through it into a small, cozy room with a bed-couch, desk, two chairs, a bookcase and a small dressing table. And the open door showed me a tiny, primitive, but adequate bathroom when Junior and Roderick gleefully pulled aside a screen shutting off one corner of the room. I saw a kitchenette with china, silver, an alcohol stove and my coffee machine.

The meeting Saturday morning of the South Hills chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club was presided over by Joe Cardarelli, the Great Jester, who after receiving the new members into the club introduced them. The first number was a tap dance by Doris Aston. Caroline Blair and Virginia Young went through a very different dance routine. The boys and girls then put on a singing contest, the boys being judged the winners. Some of the members who attended the meeting were: Rose Feldman (500), Kathleen Cadman (2221), William Overmiller (724), William Rogers (601), Joseph Grady (1548), Sam Tucker (538), Jack DeBenedictis (1713), Virginia Kramer (1620), Betty Ehrnrich (826), Sol Rosner (224), Audrey Hilcock (1280), Jane Phillips (1279), Bobby Heyl (584), Edgar Brush (1070), Fred Gruffman (1).

At the Cameraphone meeting the children were entertained by the Junior Komic Club Orchestra, which has several novelty arrangements of popular songs which the children sang. Betty Niedhammer, the grand jester, then called Margaret McClanna to the stage and presented her with the Komic Club sweater which she won for the best colored cut-out of "Popeye." Manager Segel distributed the birthday cakes to those children who had birthdays last week.

The following are just a few of the boys and girls who attended last Saturday's meeting:

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

An extremely florid skin is corrected by diet, no cosmetic will have any effect upon it, the ruddy-faced one being plethoric or full-blooded. There should be a cutting down on heavy meats, pastries, cream soups, starches and sweets, and for those foods—so beloved by the individual with the beefeater's complexion—should be substituted citrus fruits, green vegetables, cooked fruits without sugar, and an abundance of green salads with dressing made of salt, lemon juice and mineral oil.

To freshen up the hands on that day when closet shelves have been renovated and the sudden, unexpected summons comes over the phone to show up at an elegant party, mix some cornmeal with soapsuds and grind into the knuckles. Rinse and dry and devote five minutes' time to a good rub-in with cold cream. Or, if too rushed, use a disappearing lotion. When dust clings to the inner surfaces of the nails, plunge finger tips into a cut lemon.

A cheerful helper is not enough — not if you are "run-down" physically

"Mother, I do wish you were well and strong . . . you always look tired."

It isn't fair to expect one to like work or to be happy when in a "run-down" condition.

Ordinarily you don't need to go to bed or to a distant resort to regain your strength. Usually S.S.S. will do it right at home and while you are up and going.

If you require a tonic you should by all means try S.S.S.—this long established medicine acts by stimulating the secretions of the stomach . . . reviving the appetite . . . aiding digestion . . . regenerating hemoglobin . . . restoring the red-blood-cells—and builds greater resistance against infection and disease.

Try it yourself. Get S.S.S. from any drug store. In two sizes: regular and double—the latter is more economical and is sufficient for a two weeks' treatment. S.S.S. may be the means of bringing better health and happiness to you.

George Eastman

His Work, a Foundation for Further Progress, Will Be Perpetuated in the Thoughts of Men

George Eastman was one of the great industrial figures in this great industrial age and this great industrial country.

His work was known all over the world and gave enjoyment and benefit to millions.

His work was for the people and for the world rather than for himself.

His life was simple and he cared nothing for the vast wealth he accumulated except for the benefactions it enabled him to bestow.

In fact this simplicity of life, this disregard of luxury, this indifference to money, except as a measure of success and a means for public service, are distinguishing characteristics of the great Americans of our age.

But the service these great constructive geniuses render the public is not merely in the benefactions their wealth enables them to bestow.

It is mainly in the benefits their creative work supplies. It lies in the usefulness of their creations, the service to civilization, the added impetus to human progress, the increased measure of human happiness and achievement.

George Eastman has gone, but the work which he has done will never end. It is a basis upon which further progress will be built, an influence which has had its effect upon human character, and will be perpetuated in the thoughts of men long after this age shall be past and be forgotten.

It is so with all good thoughts and all good works, and that is the real recompense for labor.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

End "Tag-Fixing" Now!

The Time Is Opportune to Press for Passage of the Codified Traffic Ordinance.

Councilmen P. J. McArdle and W. Y. English have declared for immediate action on the codified traffic ordinance. Good for them!

The ordinance, sponsored by the Better Traffic Committee and indorsed by numerous trade and civic bodies and individual citizens, has been before Council off and on for four years.

We cannot recall a single objection to it that is worthy of serious consideration. There is good ground for suspicion that the only reason why the bill has not been passed is that it deprives Councilmen and politicians of the privilege of granting their friends immunity from prosecution for violation of the traffic regulations.

The audit of the City Treasurer's office has just brought to light irregularities of the traffic tag system. The time is opportune to press for a change in the system and the abolition of "tag-fixing."

Highway No Warehouse

The County Solicitor Should Seek to Force Removal of Abandoned Street Railway.

The plan to lay a sidewalk for pedestrians on the Mt. Royal boulevard, recently noted in these columns with approval, has been held up.

The County Highway Department proposed to utilize for the sidewalk the abandoned tracks of the defunct Butler Short Line Railway. But the dealer in electrical equipment who bought the rails and ties not only has not removed them but, according to F. J. Chester, director of the department, has refused to fix a date for their removal.

A public highway should not be used as a warehouse for the storage of rails and ties, and since plans for the widening of the road and the laying of the sidewalk must be held in abeyance until they are removed it would seem to be incumbent on the County Solicitor to take appropriate action.

The proposed Mt. Royal boulevard improvement is an Allegheny County Emergency Association job for the relief of the unemployed, which makes it all the more important that the delay be ended.

"Baby Bonds" Arrive

Timid Pittsburghers Now Are Offered a Safe Investment For Their Idle Money.

Government bonds in denominations as low as $50, bearing 2 per cent interest, maturing in a year but redeemable if desired on 60 days' notice, are now on sale in Pittsburgh banks.

The government "baby bonds" bring back memories of the Liberty Bond drives of the war period.

There is, however, a big difference. During the war everyone was urged to buy Liberty Bonds. But the new "baby bonds" are intended especially for timid persons who have kept their money idle, to the detriment of business and the country's welfare.

They have in the new government securities an opportunity to invest their money safely.

THE HEARST PAPERS ADVOCATE:

1—"Honest friendship with all nations—entangling alliances with none."—George Washington.
2—Proportional representation in the United States Senate—no state to have less than two Senators.
3—Abolition of the electoral college—election of the President and Vice President by plurality vote of the nation.
4—End of lame duck sessions. Installation of President and Congress immediately following election.
5—Army, Navy and Aviation—all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
6—Vigorous federal action under a Secretary of Education to abolish illiteracy in the United States.
7—Federal sales tax and excise taxes to replace the income tax which has degenerated into a racket.
8—Five-billion dollar federal loan for public works and to relieve unemployment.
9—Construction of Nicaragua Canal for commerce and defense, advocated by Hearst papers since 1895.
10—Acquisition of French and English West Indies as part payment on debts to United States.
11—Selective immigration to admit only those suited for American citizenship and American needs.
12—Deportation of undesirable aliens and extension of preliminary citizenship period to 10 years.
13—Modification of Volstead act to permit light wines and beers under federal regulation.
14—A calendar year of 13 months of four weeks each, all holidays to fall on Saturday.
15—A five-day working week or a six-hour working day to provide more jobs and better conditions for workers.

The Spirit of '32!

It isn't a pleasant picture, this Enright conception, but it is a true one.

Lawlessness is in the ascendancy in the nation today. Prohibition has bred a contempt for all law and has made rich and powerful the Racketeers who thrive on evasion of the laws.

Society is prostrate before the Underworld.

And so it will be until Prohibition is wiped out and harmless light wines and wholesome beer are legalized.

Then the dispensing of bootleg poison will NOT be profitable and Racketeers, with their principal source of revenue cut off, will not be able to purchase protection and corrupt the official agencies of law and order.

Congressmen ought to study this picture.

Tax Follies, Like Levies On Earned Income, Are Unjust

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

THIS, THE "morning after" to all save the rich and the poor, is a good time to discuss the injustices, the iniquities, the follies of the attempts to raise national revenues by levies on earned income through the racketeering operations of the VICIOUS income tax.

On the salaried classes in general its burden is heaviest, penalizing creative efforts and denying to these classes the same rights it accords to the more favored rich and the untouched poor.

This iniquitous law SHOULD BE CORRECTED AT ONCE BY CONGRESS.

In part it can be supplanted by a SELECTED MANUFACTURER'S SALES TAX, comparatively painless.

WISDOM, IT would seem, in the light of present-day knowledge, would decree that LIGHT WINES AND BEER BE RESTORED LEGALLY to their rightful places in the lives of the citizens, and, through intelligently applied EXCISE TAXES, be made to assume their share of the national burden.

Today the liquor traffic proceeds along the crooked tenor of its way, untrammeled and UNTAXED, unregulated except by its own crime syndicate, unafraid of any of the agencies of law and order.

It is the duty of Congress to encourage creative enterprise and the initiative of the citizenry.

It is the duty of Congress to lower tax rates by an intelligent application of revenue-raising principles instead of increasing the already onerous levies.

A BUSINESS depression in a sense constitutes a day of reckoning when a country pays for its blunders.

Recent remarks by superficial politicians in Washington in favor of a tax system which "soaks the rich" indicate that some lawmakers, like the Bourbons, have learned nothing and are incapable of learning from experience.

A real statesman might challenge the notion that the purpose of taxation is "to soak the rich," but, irrespective of that, a candid, realistic observer would recognize that the existing and proposed tax system in practice FAILS "to soak the rich."

The wealthy have been provided under the existing laws with avenues of escape from the onerous burden of a vicious tax system.

IN THE FIRST place, the affluent, whose income comes primarily from earnings on their accumulated property, can legally dodge income taxes by purchasing American state, municipal and other bonds, the interest on which is totally free from federal income taxation.

Secondly, in periods of depression like the present, the rich can offset taxable income by deduction of capital losses (that is to say, realized losses on stocks, bonds and real estate).

Thirdly, if the rich taxpayer happens to be a corporation, further deductions against taxable income can be made. The corporation can reduce taxable income by subtracting from total income charges for depreciation, depletion and obsolescence.

Likewise, the poor are freed from the ravages of the income tax, which exempts heads of families with incomes under $3,500 a year and single persons, with incomes under $1,500.

DESPITE A TAX reduction on "earned income," the burden of the income tax falls with especial force on the ABLEST and MOST USEFUL CITIZENS—on the creative artists, writers, actors, business managers and salaried classes in general.

Although in an authentic accounting sense such men are using up their capital as the years roll on, they are NOT permitted to follow the practice of corporations and make deductions for depreciation, depletion and obsolescence.

Yet all human experience shows that the careers of salaried men are limited by their physical strength, by their capacity to remain up to date and by the finite character of their years of maximum mental vigor.

The existing tax law is discriminatory in that it PENALIZES THE MOST CREDITABLE AND USEFUL MEMBERS OF THE COMMUNITY.

One illustration of the arbitrary character of the existing law lies in the ruling that income resulting from royalties on a book is not "earned income," but for purposes of taxation is "income from property."

With the government facing an acute financial problem, the time is at hand for revising and revitalizing our tax system.

Marry-Go-Round

A Modern Lover

I am longing to sing of My Lady's cheek—
And its blush like the morning rose—
Or like the sunset or like the dawn.
As the song of the rhymester goes.
But I cannot do it, you understand—
For My Lady's blushes are made by hand!

I am sighing to sing of my sweetheart's hair.
"Where the wandering sunbeam gleams"—
That magical web of mystery

That haunts all my waking dreams.
I wanted to call it a "golden snare"—
But I know where My Lady GILDS her hair!

HIGHBROW LOVE

"Our love," she said, "is a rational thing.
Beautiful, calm and wise—
And not the dalliance of vows in spring,
Nor the passionate beating of hearts that cling.
But—oh, that look in your eyes!"

"Our love is a mating of minds!" she sighed.
"The best of companionships—
A mental sympathy, true and tried—
A friendship subliminal, glorified.
But—oh, for the touch of your lips!

SARCASTIC LADY

When you're weary, Love, of tripping
To the saxophone and drum;
When you're tired, dear, of dancing
With the beautiful and dumb—

When the scent of lipstick kisses
Seems no longer to beguile,
When your spirit needs refreshing,
Come and chat with me awhile!

* * *

When you're quite fatigued from golfing
And a little worn with play;
When the thought of tearoom chatter
Fills your spirit with dismay—
When you're bored and all "fed up," Love,
And your dates have fallen through,
Just drop in—I'd feel SO flattered—
When you've nothing ELSE to do!

Isn't It So?

Knowing and not doing is worse than not knowing.

It's pretty hard to be dishonest and good natured at the same time.

The paths of glory lead but to the grave, but they go some while they're leading.

An old grouch thinks he's the apple of some girl's eye, but he's only the crab-apple of some old maid's optics.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 16.—New York, socially, savoured of Hickory Corners this winter. Folk usually indulging seasonal hegiras to Florida, Cuba, The Riviera and sundry spas, clung to family firesides.

The result has been a sharp return to simplicity. Despite the stay-at-homes, opera, theater and high tariffed cafes did not profit greatly. But neighborhood movies in Park, Madison and Fifth avenue areas did. You'd be surprised to see who visit Automats and the chili joints.

Sedately chintzed tea rooms, featuring dinners at $1 to $1.50, hold the crowds once gracing the egg-shaped, amber-lit dining room of the Ritz. Penthouses are deserted for cobwebby attics in The Village. Wives for the first time in married lives are cooking and washing dishes.

I was at two dinner parties whose hostesses not only prepared the food but served it. These were fortunates used to moose-eyed butlers, imported chefs, first, second and third pantrymen. And a maid named Fifi. There was wholesome gusto about it all, a light-hearted promiscuity.

Much insular aloofness has been oozed out of a chaotic world. Dinner parties could not help but be formal in the customary trappings of the rich. Belly-laughs are difficult in the sifted twilight of mullioned windows and amid the shadowy dignity of Gobelin tapestries and sedate Rembrandts.

It is no exaggeration, people who never rode in the subway or mounted steps of the "L" are doing it now. Balconies of theaters housing best plays are filled—whereas three years ago filling such balconies became one of the producers' vexing problems.

Of course, the Social Register looks upon it as a bit of slumming. It is part of the social consciousness of the moment to "play poor." But few believe it will last. They merely mark time to await the coming of the next Grand Splurge.

That delightful duo—Edna Best and Herbert Marshall—have popped over from England again with another of their charmingly fragile plays. No married couple has so caught the fervor of New York in this generation. The plot enmeshes them during a space of 24 hours in a furious love affair. At the end of that brief interlude, he finds he must suddenly sail and tries to comfort his Juliet with assurance he will return in a year. "What's the good?" she inquires with hopeless inflexion. Then adds: "You cannot heat over a souffle."

The cast of the Best-Marshall opus consists of four, with the major burden falling on the capable stars. This, despite complete lack of plot. There is only a feathery strand of commonplace incidents but in their skilled hands such theatrical trivia glow into breath-taking drama.

A vaudeville musical act split in a dressing-room row and the lady in the team, before departing, laid her partner low with a slab from a xylophone. And Frisco thinks it would have been a grand mot for the lady to have cried: "There's something to marimba me by!"

Two beloved figures in Harlem's Black Belt are Negroes of oddly contrasting talents—Bill Robinson, tap dancer, and Paul Robeson, concert baritone. Neither takes part in the hotchacha of the cabarets. Robeson, educated abroad and a skilled linguist, seems an incongruous companion for Robinson with his levee swagger, cotton field dialect and impertinently tilted gray derby. But they are constant pals.

Like every dog, the Sealyham had his day today. The elder Boston, with manners of a sour pedant, nips at the puppy when he snaps into one of his running streaks, racing goofishly about the house for no reason at all and winding up in an exhausted, rosy-tongued squat. Today when the Boston snarled, the Sealyham tore into him and fur flew. Honors were even. At the moment they are asleep, back to back, in an arcadian retreat under a book shelf. Pals again, bless 'em!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

"Look!" said the old jewel merchant, and laid a strange stone in my hand.

Surprised, I saw his face was all aglow. Why this excitement over a very ordinary stone? For so, at first glance, it seemed. Smokey blue; neither shining nor sparkling nor richly solid. An uncertain stone, now hiding, now revealing its sulky depths. Curious, perhaps, but wherein lay its beauty? Why did the old jewel merchant touch it almost reverently?

And then I saw!

Deep in the heart of it—gleaming through the murk of it—there shone a star! No hard fragment of mica that could, by one's imagination, be made to seem a star, but a luminous core of light, without substance, whose pure rays spread throughout the darkness.

And now that I had seen it, I could see nothing else. Turn the stone as I might, seeing first its weak and negative coloring, then its murky shadows, always I saw the star shining serenely on.

"Star sapphire," said the old man softly.

"But why?" I said. "What makes that star? How did it come there?"

"Nobody knows how it came there," said the old jewel merchant, with his curious, gentle smile. "But there it is."

* * *

Often and often, going through life, working with men and women, I have remembered that hour.

A discouraged business—working with human nature.

Uncertain material!

Weak where it should be strong; dark where it should be bright.

Like something still unfinished—perhaps not worth the finishing.

For what beauty could come of this shifty thing with its murky depths of selfishness and stupidity?

Why waste time and tears upon it?

Did I not know the uselessness of it all, knowing the weakness in myself?

So I have thought—working with men and women, feeling anger rising in me, and disgust. Feeling profound discouragement. Vowing I was through with the whole shoddy mess of them!

And then, suddenly, I would see! Deep in the heart of them—

Gleaming through the murk of them—

There would shine a star!

No mere trick of personality; no clever ruse of acting that could, by one's imagination, be made to seem a star—

But light itself.

Spreading its pure and peaceful rays through the sad darkness.

Where did it come from? Of what was it made? No one has ever found an answer to that mystery. Only an old book says—

"AND THE LORD GOD FORMED MAN OF THE DUST OF THE GROUND AND BREATHED INTO HIS NOSTRILS THE BREATH OF LIFE: AND MAN BECAME A LIVING SOUL."

Within the stone a star.

Often, when I have grown discouraged with human beings, desperate with myself—I have come upon that star. And finding it, could, for a little while, see nothing else. And felt my own heart flooded with new joy and hope.

FOR WHAT DO THE SHADOWS MATTER IF, WITHIN, THERE SHINES A STAR?

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

My Friend

My friend must ever be
In part a strange country
Whose bounds I cannot see.

In him must dwell always
The hope of sun-sweet days,
The pledge of unknown ways

For friendship though it yield
Glimpse of fair lands revealed
Fairer must keep concealed

Must bring, with care's release
Vistas of perfect peace
Where strife and tumult cease

Never, in full, possessed,
My friend is still a quest
To cheer my seeking breast

My friend must ever be
An unexplored country
A beckoning mystery.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Do you have good natured discussions or heated arguments at home?

Are you so arrogant that you will not permit any member of your family to dispute your statements without becoming aroused and angry?

You insist upon being lord and master in your own home.

If you would allow members of your family to express their views without immediately trying to change their opinions you might create a better and happier home atmosphere.

But no you insist upon doing all the thinking for the family.

So the family either lose interest in evolving ideas for themselves or they are pretty careful not to let you know what they really think.

You might be surprised at the logical deductions that even the younger members of your family have come to, in regard to your expressed sentiments.

Naturally they would like to get the best of you in an argument if you could hold your temper and think impersonally.

But if you follow the course that your opinion must be the last word you never will bring out from your wife or the children the good ideas they have.

Try to create and foster a thinking spirit in them.

They read and they study and they might teach you something.
